Bill Harnett flew in from Calgary on the weekend in time to team up with Victoria friend Gerry Vonk and win the men's championship in the Great Inner Tube Race.

They crossed the finish line in a course record 20 minutes, 15 seconds, to the cheers of more than 15,000 spectators along Gorge Road and in Kinsmen's Gorge Park.

"This was certainly worth flying out for," said Harnett, a 21-year-old electrician, formerly of Victoria.

He and Vonk had won in 1977 but last year Harnett stayed in Calgary and passed up the race.

Vonk, who failed to win a trophy last year, was delighted the championship team had been re-united.

"I told him we could win if we teamed up again," said Vonk, a 22-year-old University of Victoria student.

They edged out Brian Ellis, 27, and Neil Salmond, 23, last year's champions, in a fierce closing duel.

"It was a great finish," Ellis said. "They got off to a good start and we just couldn't catch them. Maybe next year."

Third was Mike Lawless, 18, and Bernie Lawless, 16.

The event, in perfect weather, drew 360 paddlers, about 100 more than last year. There were 212 in the men's, 84 in the women's and 64 in the mixed teams.

Women's champion for the second straight year was the "Thirties Power" team of Pat Carfra, 38, and Kathy Walls, whose age was listed as "over 30."

They had a tougher race than in 1978.

"We were second for awhile but then we finally caught up," Carfra said. "Last year I had time to wave to the crowd but this year we had to keep on paddling."

They were out to win but their main aim was to prove that life doesn't end at 30.

Their time was a fast 24 minutes, 44 seconds.

Second was the team of Janice Mason, 19, and Denise Mason, 18.

Third were Sue Okros and Marie Webb, both 17.

There was a minor upset in the mixed event, when Daniel Rigolet, 36, teamed up with Monique Grypink, 22, and won by a narrow margin over perennial champions John Clayton, 36, and Sarah Braithwaite, 19.

"In some ways I don't mind that we came second," Clayton said.

"Last year we won by a margin of five minutes. It was more competitive this year, a tremendous race."

Third was the team of Tom Hughes, 21, and Elizabeth Townshend, 20.

Winning time for Rigolet and Grypink was 23 minutes, 50 seconds.

Rigolet had been in the men's event for the past three years and had come seventh each time. Teaming up with Grypink, who was racing for the first time, proved to be an excellent idea, he said.

It had all started at noon with contestants signing in at the official table and then lining up for the pre-race parade.

Best parade entry was a Rock and Row float, consisting of a jiving cave made of small trees and a racing raft equipped with oars. It made effective use of the race theme, the 1950s rock and roll era.

When the parade started, some members on the float began rocking to recorded music while the others began rowing.

The inspired effort was the work of many hands, employees of Olympic Window Cleaners. They included Bill Stoyles, Rory Barclay, Mike Parfett, Joanne Ellis, Darlene Carlton, and race trophy winners Ellis and Salmond.

The float had sponsors aplenty as well. Besides Olympic, the entry was submitted by Garbo's Costumes and United Commercial Travellers 434.

Brownie's Fried Chicken was the parade trophy for a mixed entry and Super Tuber Tellers won the ladies parade trophy.

The parade got off promptly at 12:30 p.m. and was greeted by an enthusiastic crowd as it passed along Gorge Road to the starting point, Craigflower Bridge.

Back at the finish line, a grand picnic was under way with thousands enjoying hot dogs, hamburgers and cold drinks at half price, courtesy of the Kinsmen.

A cannon started the women's race at 1:34 p.m., followed closely by the mixed event at 1:36 p.m.

Then the traffic jam of 212 male entries were lined up for the third race, which started at 1:45 p.m.

The women's pair of Carfra and Walls were the first to reach the finish line, just before 2 p.m. It was 50 minutes later before the last tube hit the shore.

Awards were presented at 3:15 p.m. but thousands stayed on to listen to local bands and continue the picnic.

The event was organized by Hampton Park Hustlers.

Spokesman Bob Painton made a brief speech paying tribute to the Victoria Times for sponsoring the event and to local radio stations, the Kinsmen, police, and firemen and a number of other organizations and businesses who helped out.

"The weather was perfect," he said.

And the Hustlers plan to do it again next year.

Country cousins turning to crime

VANCOUVER (CP) — Fifteen tons of corn disappear from the middle of a field.

Five tons of grapes are stolen with only the mangled vines left behind. Cattle is rustled. Hay disappears.

And a Richmond farmer says he lost $10,000 worth of strawberries by theft in one year alone.

A soaring crime rate in rural British Columbia during the last few years has prompted police to attempt to duplicate urban crime prevention programs with a country theme.

"The name of the game is participation," said RCMP S. Sgt. Don Rowett. "There are a lot more ranchers than there are policemen."

A program started about three years ago in the Ashcroft area has residents participating in a range patrol similar to the neighborhood watch programs implemented in urban areas.

"There have been incidents where people have been caught in the act," said Constable Neil Taylor of Ashcroft. "It shows that the range patrol is effective."

Rowett said a similar program has been operating in the Pemberton area about 120 kilometres north of Vancouver for 1½ years to check back roads and isolated areas for abandoned stolen cars, vandalism and other suspicious activities.

Other activities are being prepared, such as community police participation patrols, Rowett said.

A pilot project for participation patrols is also being tested on Vancouver Island.

Police say increased population in rural areas and less awareness of security among rural residents may have influenced the crime rate. However, successful programs can have a reverse effect on statistics.

Air fares up 15% Sept. 1

GENEVA (AP) — The world's major airlines agreed today on increases in passenger rates and cargo fares of between nine and 15 per cent effective Sept. 1 to make up for soaring fuel costs.

Conference sources said the complex package won unanimous approval from the 63 airlines attending the talks. Details on the many area accords, including on the most competitive North Atlatic routes, will be announced later this week.

Hans Rudolf Hagedorn, vice-director of Swissair, told reporters that rates in Switzerland will benefit from a hard-currency rebate of between 1.5 and 2 per cent because of the strength of the Swiss franc against the U.S. dollar.

It was the second round of increases this year to keep up with the fuel prices that have doubled during 1979. The first round, in March, produced increases of between five and seven per cent.

The International Air Transport Association, which convened the talks, estimates that its member airlines will have to cope with an average worldwide 16-per-cent increase in operating costs from fuel alone since the beginning of this year.

This figure, IATA experts say, does not include the impact of fuel-related inflation or other, non-fuel costs which they say will be felt in 1980.

"We had two weeks of very, very difficult negotiations," Hagedorn said. "Some airlines felt that even 15 per cent was far from enough. Others were under pressure from their government to keep the increase very low."

Originally, the new fares were to go into effect Oct. 1 but airlines realized that this would mean additional losses, he said. "We already can't recover the July and August costs," he commented.

Mercy ships save 1,893 boat people

YOU THINK CANADA SHOULD ACCEPT ALL THE VIETNAMESE BOATPEOPLE? HOW COME?
BEEF UP OUR NAVY.

SINGAPORE (AP) — A private U.S. mercy ship rescued 46 Vietnamese refugees from an oil rig off the Malaysian coast and a U.S. Navy ship picked up 29 today, raising to 1,893 the total number of boat people saved by an international fleet combing the South China Sea.

The U.S. Navy combat supply ship picked up the 29 boat people about 350 kilometres west of the Subic Naval Base, a spokesman at the base in the Philippines reported. They were due at the base Tuesday morning and will be resettled in the United States, he said.

The French hospital ship Ile de Lumiere has been the most successful of the rescue ships so far. It picked up 837 so far this month.

Three Italian navy ships that left Singapore last Wednesday to look for boat people have found 196 so far, Ambassador F. L. Ottieri reported. The navy force, which includes the helicopter carrier Vittorio Veneto, the cruiser Andrea Doria and the supply ship Stromboli, hopes to find 1,000 and take them to Italy.

Meanwhile, in an apparent effort to crack down on the exodus of refugees, Vietnam has sentenced four people to death on charges of murder while trying to flee the country.

The Vietnamese also have increased offshore patrols and increased port security.

Forest fire hazard extreme

B.C.'s forest fire situation is the worst since 1971 and potentially very dangerous, a forest protection branch spokesman said today.

"We are facing a very difficult August if this weather pattern continues," branch director Don Owen told a news conference.

"The situation is potentially extremely dangerous.

"What would give us fits would be a dry lightning storm" sweeping through the interior forest areas.

Lightning did hit the area during the weekend and sparked 203 fires.

Most of the new fires were in the Kamloops-Nelson-Williams Lake area and brought the total number of fires burning to 446.

So far this year there have been 2,018 forest fires in B.C.

Owen said the situation is under control at the moment but a bad lightning storm could present serious problems.

The weather outlook for August doesn't spell any relief either, he added.

Cloudburst floods Calgary

CALGARY (CP) — A sudden shower of torrential rain and hail swept over the city Sunday knocking out power lines and flooding roads and basements.

The 45-minute downpour with winds of up to 64 kilometres an hour created "general chaos" for the city's hydro department, said department spokesman Jim Walker.

The squall created waist deep floods in some parts of the city and set Calgarians to shovelling hail from their sidewalks and driveways.

"It's the heaviest shower I've ever seen," said Jim Steele, a weather observer at Calgary International Airport weather office.

The storm dumped 10.2 millimetres of rain on the airport precipitation guage while Steele said two weather office employees reported rainfall of between 50 and 75 millimetres in the Silver Springs area.

One fire truck went to check a house reported with 1.5 metres of hailstones sitting on it and flooding the basement, the spokesman said. But otherwise, callers were told to "just try and bail, that's about it."

Steele said he saw a car floating down the road backward at the intersection of Sarcee and Crowchild Trails, followed closely by a floating mailbox.

LINING UP for the slalom competition which was part of the five-race series of the B.C. Windsurfers Association championships at Elk Lake on the weekend, sailors present a colorful spectacle in a sport that is becoming more popular every summer. Ross Harrington of Victoria won the slalom event and took honors in the lightweight division. Top sailor in the heavyweight division was Chris Janeway of Whistler Mountain. Queen overnights in wild game park

LUSAKA (AP) — Queen Elizabeth travelled 400 kilometres (250 miles) from the cares of the British Commonwealth on Sunday and spent the night in a remote wild game park.

In Lusaka, government leaders began arriving for a potentially divisive Commonwealth conference that starts Wednesday, with the Queen to attend the opening session.

Representatives of Barbados, the Bahamas and Ghana were among the first to fly into the Zambian capital.

Turmoil that threatens to split the Commonwealth was underscored with a Zambian government announcement that leaders of five black African states which support the seven-year guerrilla war in Zimbabwe Rhodesia will meet in Lusaka today.

The purpose of the meeting was not given but it is expected to focus on the strife in Zimbabwe Rhodesia, immediately south of Zambia. The five countries have rejected the new black-majority government of Zimbabwe Rhodesia led by Prime Minister Abel Muzorwea. April elections won by Muzorewa's party ended almost a century of white-minority rule but the guerrillas and their backers claim the new government is controlled by the whites.

Black African countries fear that the Conservative government in London may lift sanctions — or even recognize — the new government in the breakaway British colony.

Sunday was the third day of the Queen's visit to Zambia and she travelled to the Luangwa game camp near the eastern border with Malawi. She had made a royal visit to Malawi last week.

The Queen will tour the park today with Prince Philip and son, Prince Andrew, for a glimpse of one of the largest concentrations of wild game in Africa.

It is not known if any of the estimated 15,000 black Rhodesian guerrillas based in Zambia have camps near the park but officials described the area as "completely safe."

The black African countries represented at the five-country meeting today will be Commonwealth members Zambia, Botswana and Tanzania, and former Portuguese colonies Angola and Mozambique, the Zambian spokesman said.

Consumer replies show beef prices getting verse

OTTAWA (CP) — In its weekend edition for July 21, the Ottawa Citizen offered 100 pounds of beef each for the five best limericks concerning beef and its price. Seven days later the newspaper announced its choices — from 2,981 entries received.

Ted Allen, newspaper national advertising manager who read the entries in a four-day marathon, says he had a great time going through them, but a difficult time deciding on the final five.

In fact, because of the number of entries and their excellence, 12 steak dinners for two were awarded as consolation prizes.

The five best entries:

Ed Attfield, Ottawa electrical engineer.

A very large grocer (here Nameless)
Was increasing prices quite shameless.
When asked about why,
He said with a cry
That Nameless the shameless was blameless.

Jonathan Moore, Carleton University science major.

I've just had a vision quite comical
Due to beef prices now astronomical.
Instead of pot roast
Eat dog-chow on toast;
Amusing, and yet, economical.

Jean Ashworth, Richmond, Ont., housewife.

Boil two newts with four toads and a bat,
Add pepper and salt, and some fat.
This Macbethean stew
Won't cost you a sou
(And for pudding there's always the cat.)

John Hemming, Ottawa limericist who wrote 10 entries.

Excuse me for fussing and fretting
I find it extremely upsetting.
I've always, I swear,
Preferred my steaks rare,
But not quite as rare as they're getting.

Jose E. Merritt, rookie Ottawa limericist, with her first try.

An Ottawa couple, once known
For their intimate dinners, now phone:
"Come for cocktails at seven,
Then nightcaps at eleven.
As for food — we can't cope — bring your own."

Bomb threat closes Madrid subway

MADRID (AP) — Police shut down Madrid's subway system for one hour and 15 minutes today because of telephoned bomb warnings after weekend bomb and gun attacks by Basque separatists killed nine persons and wounded more than 100 others.

There were threats also to the capital's international airport, where a bomb killed one person and injured nine on Sunday, but air traffic was reported normal.

A bus station on the southern edge of the city also was closed temporarily because of a bomb warning but none was found, the police said.

Forest fire hazard soars

most areas of the province for Tuesday is for cloudy weather with showers, the forest service doesn't feel there will be enough precipitation to reduce the fire hazard.

In particular, there doesn't appear to be much relief in site for the Kamloops-Nelson-Williams Lake area where the fire hazard is high to extreme.

The forest service is concerned with that area because there has only been about half an inch of rain in the past three months. Normally, the area gets between three to six inches during that period.

Most of the fires are confined to a few acres. Among the largest is a 500-acre blaze northwest of Shuswap Lake in the Kamloops forest district and two fires of about 100 acres each in the Nelson district.

Crews are holding their own against all the fires, but are experiencing some difficulty in fighting the three largest because of rough, hilly terrain.

About 1,000 men, 50 bulldozers, 30 helicopters and 15 tanker planes spent the weekend on fire lines throughout the province.

Campfire bans are in effect throughout much of southern B.C.

Meanwhile, about 2,000 loggers on Vancouver Island remain off the job as companies have closed down their operations due to the fire hazard.

Barge knocks out CN bridge

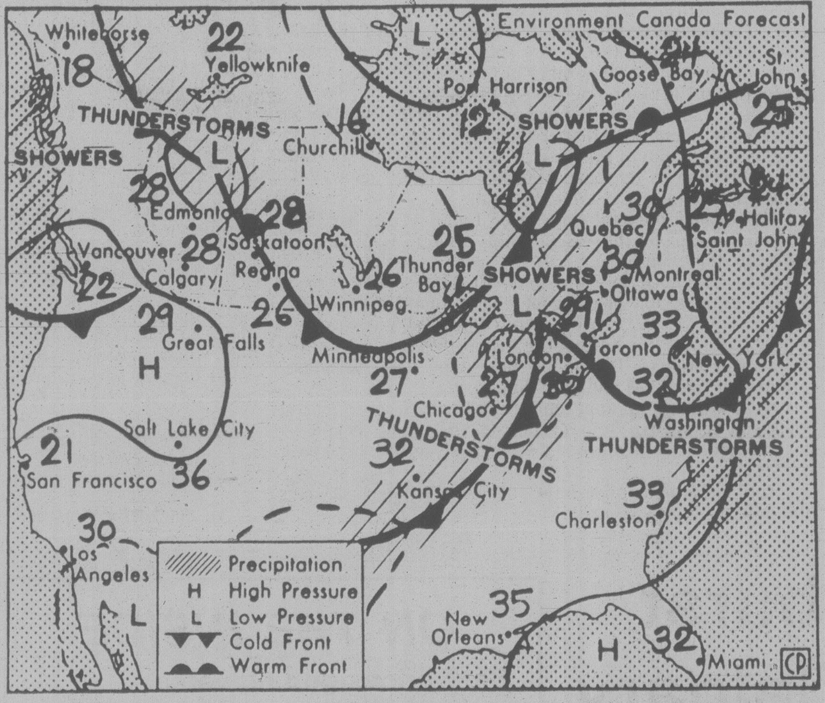
NEW WESTMINSTER (CP) — The Canadian National Railways bridge across the Fraser River at New Westminster will be closed for about one month.

The bridge was closed to railway traffic Sunday after a barge collided with the structure.

Meanwhile, Canadian National is moving trains over Canadian Pacific Railway tracks. Burlington Northern Railway traffic, which also used the bridge, has been diverted.

Passengers headed for Vancouver aboard the Amtrak train from Seattle are being taken off at Blaine, Wash. and bused to Vancouver.

The Weather



The province is slowly moving under the influence of a moister Pacific airflow. More cloud and slightly cooler temperatures are expected for the next few days. Weak cloud systems are being allowed to pass over the regions. The result will be some cloudy skies over southwestern B.C. along with mostly cloudy skies and showers over the northern coastal regions. The cloud and shower activity will become more extensive on Tuesday. The southern interior be mostly sunny and itntinuing warm with only afternoon cloudiness ane some thundershower activity. The central interior regions will continue mostly cloudy with some shower and thundershower activity.

Hook, line, dentures . . . what a bass trick to play!

Beneath the placid waters of Fort Gibson Lake in northeast Oklahoma there is a fish with a set of "store-bought" choppers. Russell Guffey told Tulsa World newspaper writer Paul Cleary a fish story he swears is true. It seems a Tulsa woman was fishing on the lake when her line became tangled. Rather than pull it out of the water, she placed part of the line in her mouth while she worked to correct the problem. Apparently a bass had been waiting with baited breath, as it were, for such an opportunity. It struck the woman's line, yanked her dentures from her mouth and made off with $700 worth of hardware.

Separated Siamese twins Elisa and Lisa, with their parents

Siamese twins Lisa and Elisa Hansen are undergoing physicial therapy to overcome partial paralysis that resulted from the delicate surgery to separate their skulls, says their father, David Hansen. "One side was completely paralysed, with one foot pointing down and the hand clenched," Hansen said of his daughters in an interview in Ogden, Utah. The twins are coming out of the paralysis through extensive physical therapy to rebuild muscles necessary for supporting the head and for walking. Now 21 months old, the twins were separated May 29 after 16 hours of surgery. A shared portion of their brains was severed.

Almost 20 years ago, Alan Puccini polished off a jug of red wine, wrote a note that he stuffed inside, and tossed it into the Atlantic. This week, he will get it back. Puccini, now 38, says he was about one day out of New York from Genoa, Italy on Aug. 18, 1959, when he wrote the note that included his parents' address in Atherton, Calif., and dropped the bottle into the Atlantic. Last week, his phone rang in his Morag, Calif., home and a voice said: "I've got something that belongs to you." Scot Scotty of West Palm Beach, Fla., said he found the bottle while in the Bahamas and tracked down Puccini using the address on the note.

Sooke logger Ron Hartill won his sixth straight lumberjack title at the 20th Annual Lumberback World Championships in Haward, Wis., on Sunday. Hartill, who set a new world record in the springboard chopping event in Friday's preliminaries, captured three championships in gaining the over-all crown. He took the springboard title, won the one-man bucking title for the sixth straight year, and teamed with 64-year-old Merv Jensen of New Plymouth, New Zealand, for their third straight two-man bucking title. More than 100 choppers, sawyers, climbers and log rollers from Canada, Australia, New Zealand, Spain and the United States competed for more than $20,000 in prizes.

Actress Farrah Fawcett-Majors, best known as the former star of ABC's television series Charlie's Angels, and actor Lee Majors have announced they are separating after six years of marriage. Jay Bernstein, their manager, said the couple hoped to reconcile and blamed the trial separation on stress from conflicts in their acting careers.

Pope John Paul II is not expected to visit Canada during his October tour of the United States and Ireland, authoritative Vatican sources said today. Canada sent word to the Vatican that Prime Minister Clark would be delighted if the Pope visited Canada as part of his tour, but the sources said stops other than those already announced are not foreseen.

Vietnam raps China border war threat

PEKING (Reuter) — Vietnam said today that China is continuing to prepare for war along their border and accused Chinese forces of armed provocations on the frontier.

"The situation along the border between the two countries remains very tense," Vietnamese delegate Dinh Nho Liem said as the two countries resumed talks aimed at resuming diplomatic relations following a border war earlier this year.

China, in turn, criticized Vietnam for its involvement in Laos and Cambodia.

The speeches of the two delegations indicated there is no prospect of a break in the negotiating deadlock in the nine sessions held so far — five in Hanoi and four in Peking.

Hanoi's delegate again rejected any attempt by the Chinese to link progress in the talks with Vietnam's involvement in Cambodia and Laos.

Chinese delegate Han Nianlong said Vietnam has refused to get to the crux of the problem by not discussing the principle of anti-hegemonism or the five principles of peaceful coexistence.

Han accused Hanoi of having occupied Chinese, Cambodian and Laotian territory, and of continuing provocations along the Chinese border.

Nicaragua requests weapons from U.S.

MANAGUA (AP) — Nicaragua's new ruling junta has asked the United States for weapons to help suppress any attempted counterrevolution, a government official said Sunday.

Alfredo Cesar Aguirre, chief-of-staff of the reconstruction government appointed by the left-wing Sandinista National Liberation Front, said a request has been made but it did not list specific weapons.

"The weapons would not be to arm more people but only to consolidate the Sandinista army for the defence of Nicaragua," he said.

The request cannot be confirmed immediately with U.S. embassy officials. In Washington, U.S. state department spokesman Anita Stockman questioned how a formal request could have been made. She noted U.S. Ambassador Lawrence Pezzullo returned to Managua on Saturday and has not yet presented his credentials to the new government.

She said the United States has no arms agreement in force with Nicaragua and she knew only of arrangements for economic aid.

The United States had been the main arms supplier to President Anastasio Somoza's national guard but stopped all shipments early in 1979 because of alleged human rights violations by the Somoza regime.

Somoza was ousted two weeks ago in the Sandinista-led uprising. He claimed that the U.S. arms cutoff helped the Sandinistas win. He fled to Florida and was reported to be sailing in the Caribbean aboard a luxury yacht.

At a news conference Saturday night with six other members of the Sandinista national directorate, Interior Minister Thomas Borge said he had made a request to Pezzullo for weapons "to defend our country against reactionary and imperialistic forces in Latin America."

MARCHING ORDERS? or maybe just advice on how to grow a bushier beard is conveyed by Cuba's Premier Fidel Castro, right, to Alfonso Robelo, a junta member of Nicaragua's new reconstruction government during a recent visit to Cuba.

42 reported slain in new Iraqi purge

BEIRUT (UPI) — The Iraqi regime of President Saddam Hussein has executed 42 top Baath Party and army officials for plotting a coup with the help of another Arab government, the leftist Lebanese newspaper As Safir reported today.

The newspaper said the first to be executed were the five senior Baath Party officials accused of masterminding the coup attempt. They were followed, As Safir said, by seven top Iraqi army officers and 30 lower-ranking officers and party officials.

But the pro-Iraqi newspaper Al Liwa said the government had completed its investigations and the "trials of the conspirators is still continuing."

It made no mention of executions but said, "Not a single one of them has escaped."

The state-owned Iraqi News Agency quoted the ruling Revolutionary Command Council late Saturday as saying five senior Baath Party and government officials arrested July 22 would be tried for plotting to topple Hussein with the help and guidance of an "outside faction."

The "outside faction" was not identified. But the agency said the aim of the coup was to make Iraq support the Egyptian-Israeli peace treaty.

As Safir, citing Arab diplomatic sources in Baghdad, said the outside faction was an unnamed "Arab government".

'Hands off oil fields' Iran tells superpowers

TEHRAN (Reuter) — Iranian oil chief Hassan Nazih has warned the superpowers to keep their hands off Iran's oil fields, saying any intervention would hurt consumer countries, the official Pars news agency reported today.

Nazih, chairman of the National Iranian Oil Co., rejected the possibility of any such intervention, but said that if it does occur, "it would have very harmful results, especially for the oil consumers," Pars said.

Iran's oil output is normally the second highest in the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries after that of Saudi Arabia. Under the shah, Iran's output rose to a maximum of 6.5 million barrels a day.

Since oil exports resumed last March after the shah was overthrown, Iran has been producing three million to four million barrels a day.

The drop in production has contributed to a dramatic shortfall in world oil supplies, which has sent the price of crude to record heights and presented industrialized and developing countries with a new energy crisis.

Objectionable bill

Let no one admit he does not want to "promote, facilitate and encourage the development, maintenance and operation" of the Whistler Mountain ski resort.

Tourism, as British Columbians learned anew this week with reports of $1.6 billion in earnings last year, is an exceedingly important revenue item. It brings crowds of people, which sometimes annoy the local residents at the height of the summer, but tourists don't clear-cut entire forests or dig strip mines.

If advertising Whistler's fabulous skiing in the U.S. and eastern Canada helps tourism in B.C., then who can quibble over such a good cause?

However, the special bill unveiled by the provincial government last week to establish an association of resort owners is entirely another matter. There's a bad smell about the whole thing. Bill 34 is an amendment to the Resort Municipality of Whistler Act, itself a bit of special treatment for the mountain resort area 90 miles north of Vancouver.

Establishment of a special "resort municipality" was thought necessary four years ago when Whistler faced a crisis — it was swamped with thousands of winter skiers requiring a sophisticated level of services, but the permanent population of a few hundred could barely support the most minimal structure of government.

The lack of a proper sewer system was the worst problem, as much of the area is bare rock and mineral soil which can't accomodate the usual rural sewage disposal by septic tank. Whistler faced a bill of $7 million right there.

So the province stepped in and made Whistler a unique municipal creature. Whistler's special act named a council of five, one member appointed by Victoria, the rest and the mayor elected locally. It was exempted from several crucial sections of the Municipal Act governing how much money a municipality may borrow to finance public works. Such restrictions would have prevented the necessary sewage system from being built, which the province paid for.

If these exemptions weren't enough, the act also gave the minister of municipal affairs rather wide powers allowing him to exempt Whistler from any act applying to municipalities, to vary the size of the town council, to directly impose and collect taxes for sewer, water and other services and "respecting any other matter required to carry out the intent and purpose" of the act.

Though it gave the government and the new resort municipality some sweeping powers, the act was generally welcomed as a solution to a festering problem. But with the recent introduction of amendments making Whistler even more a law unto itself, many are having second thoughts.

The amendments establish an association of resort property owners to promote and encourage development of Whistler, a worthy aim, of course. The area has a good chance of hosting the Winter Olympics in the near future. Fair enough.

But membership is compulsory, and the association can levy special assessments against property owners to finance promotion activities, and file liens against the property if the owner refuses to pay. It may also hold property itself. The association is exempted from the provisions of the Companies Act and the Societies Act.

Ignore the fact that the customary method of establishing such associations is to petition the legislature through private member's bill. Ignore some of the more intemperate screaming from the opposition New Democrats (who originated the Whister Resort Municipality Act with its special deal in the first place).

Ignore the fact that Labor Minister Allan Williams, in whose constituency Whistler is located and who has ramrodded the bill through the legislature, owns shares in a company which will benefit from any improvements at Whistler.

Ignore all this, and the bill is still objectionable. If the resort owners want to band together to promote the wonders of skiing at Whistler, let them do so voluntarily under the useful legislation that already exists on the books. If it is such a wonderful idea, let them prove it by convincing property owners without coercion.

It should win on its merits, not by such heavyhanded tactics as Bill 34.

Way out west

Calgary the gay capital of Canada? We've experienced civic boosterism before, but the boasts from Canada's oil capital are a little unsettling.

Maybe there's more to Calgary than the annual stampede and 10-gallon cowboy hats. One spokesman for homosexuals says "at the rate we are going, Calgary will replace Vancouver as the San Francisco of Canada in the next two years."

Decadent, narcissistic Vancouver is a logical mecca for gays. But Calgary, the rough, tough cow town, fastest-growing city in Canada? The phrase "way out west" takes on new meaning.

Is it the chance to dress up in western gear all year around? Half the oilmen in town wear stetsons and cowboy boots. Surely, they aren't . . . no, it can't be . . .

Trudeau here on sufferance

OTTAWA — Our prime ministers almost always are re-elected for two terms. To find an exception to this rule, and it took a depression to do it, you have to go back almost half a century to R.B. Bennett in 1935.

Hence, Prime Minister Joe Clark probably will win the next election. Hence, to follow logic relentlessly to its conclusion, Pierre Trudeau will never again be prime minister. He has no real political future. He is an opposition leader on sufferance, occupying the post only until some Liberal with better long-term prospects replaces him.

At his press conference last week, his first public political appearance since the May election, Trudeau conceded none of this. Naturally. About possible challenges to his leadership, he said, "It's not something I'm worrying about." About himself, he said, "I'm the best."

Capture headlines

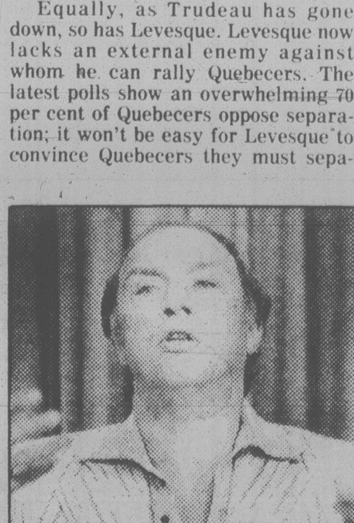
As always, Trudeau rose to the occasion. He dressed so that the television cameras would linger over him — a sky-blue, open neck shirt with three buttons undone, white duck trousers, a cotton-silk, gray-striped, cream jacket.

He crafted his comments to capture the headlines. Trudeau mocked Clark for policy "flip-flops" and, with controlled sarcasm, said, "He has to make his mistakes, and hopefully he will continue to do so." He called the government's refugee program "a cop-out" because the number of refugees the government will bring in depends upon the number that Canadians are willing to, and can afford to, sponsor. These barbs were adroitly delivered. But beside the point.

Perhaps the most fascinating of the ironies in contemporary Canadian politics is the way the careers of those lifelong enemies, Trudeau and Quebec Premier Rene Levesque are so inseparably intertwined that the collapse of the career of one of them threatens the other, while alternatively, the success of either of them benefits the other.

Levesque's election victory, in November, 1976, transformed Trudeau's Gallup poll standing from an historic (Liberal) low of 29 per cent to a sky-high 52 per cent. Had Trudeau, as his aides urged, called an election for late 1977 when he still was perceived as Confederation's savior, he would have won and would be prime minister today.

Equally, as Trudeau has gone down, so has Levesque. Levesque now lacks an external enemy against whom he can rally Quebecers. The latest polls show an overwhelming 70 per cent of Quebecers oppose separation; it won't be easy for Levesque to convince Quebecers they must separate in order to avoid being crushed by Clark.



PIERRE TRUDEAU
. . just interim leader

Yet Levesque remains Trudeau's political patron, however unintentionally so. By postponing his referendum until next spring, Levesque has given Trudeau political immunity until then. Usually, failed leaders (Louis St. Laurent in 1957, Robert Stanfield in 1974) step aside quickly to accommodate a successor. No Liberal, though, will challenge Trudeau's right to write his own last chapter in the history books by campaigning against Levesque in the referendum.

At the press conference, Trudeau said that a term in opposition would allow the Liberal party to "re-examine its whole ideological base." Liberals, he said, would be able now to "think about our role as a party of the centre, and hopefully as a party a little bit to the left of the centre."

In fact, this kind of fundamental re-examination can be done only by a new leader. In the meantime, to give all potential leadership candidates a better chance to make their name, Trudeau has named no less than 49 of his 112 MPs as "parliamentary spokesmen" on everything from agriculture to urban affairs, instead of resorting to a more conventional, but more rigid and smaller opposition "shadow cabinet." As well, to ensure that idle hands will not get into political mischief, Trudeau has attached all of his MPs to one or other of the new caucus policy committees.

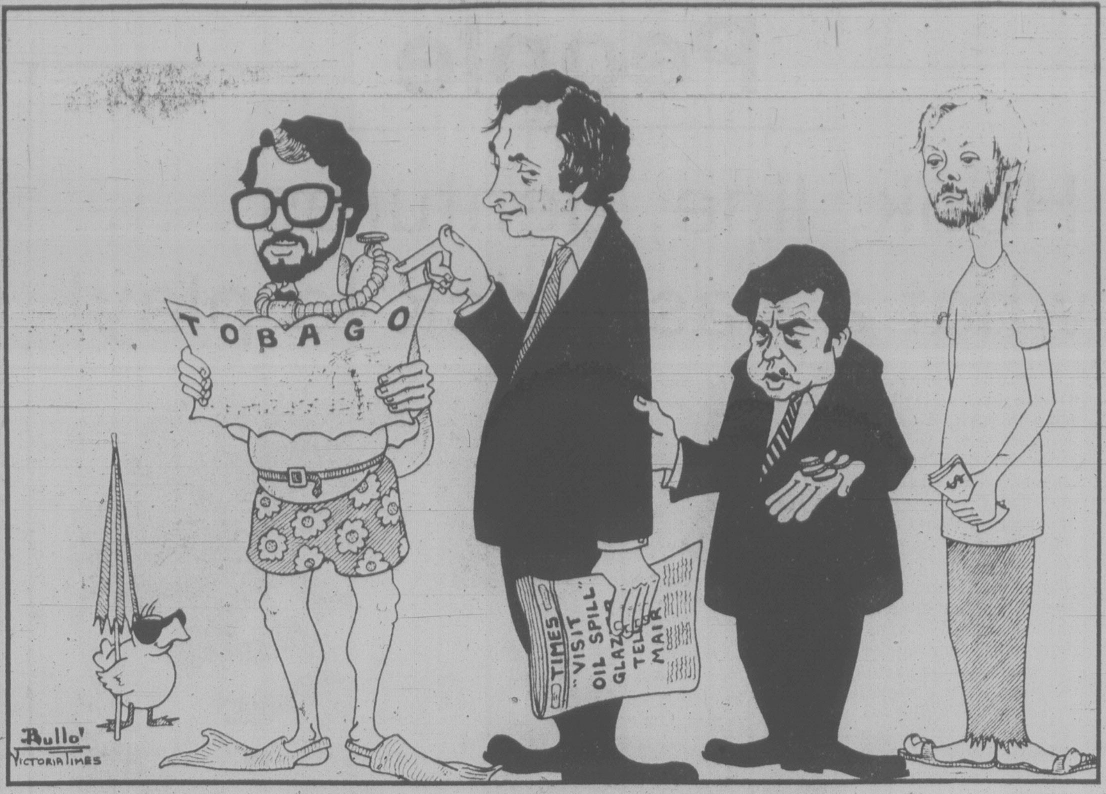
A store minder

All of this is useful. Today, the Clark government is midway through its honeymoon. The public is in no mood to pry into its behavior. By the fall, however, particularly when economic conditions deteriorate, the public will become more demanding. The Liberals, and the New Democrats then will be able to score points off the Conservative government and be applauded for them.

Yet, unless history really is bunk (as Henry Ford once remarked), Trudeau still will be no more than an opposition leader on sufferance. A store minder rather than a pacesetter.

Here's a last irony to mull over. The spring date for Levesque's referendum is Trudeau's guarantee that his leadership won't be challenged for about another nine months. This protracted truce is exactly what the Liberals needed anyway, both to groom potential leadership candidates such as the westerners Lloyd Axworthy and Art Phillips, and to entice back into party ranks ready-made candidates such as John Turner and Donald McDonald.

Trudeau, although you'd be reckless to expect him to do it, ought to send Levesque a thank you note.



And we'll chip in if he'll take the rest of them with him.

Anywhere, U.S.A.

A piece by Al Forrest in the July 19 Times (Where Can We Bed Them All Down?) seems to show that Victoria's tourist promoters are pulling so hard in opposite directions that they are in serious danger of suffering a double hernia in their principles. There are so many tourists arriving that Ed Higgin, president of Visitors Information Centre, says "we just don't know where we're going to put them all." This makes things pretty tough on his staff, but with that great footwork characteristic of all good athletes and PR men, he manages to see the bright side: "We are demonstrating to investors that we need more hotel space by next summer . . . We have to show them by having overflow crowds."

Meanwhile, Murray Glazier, chairman of the Capital Region Board, has been airing a few thoughts. He begins by zeroing in on the fallacy in Higgin's argument: "Those who have not been able to find space will not feel friendly towards Victoria." To anyone who has been turned away from motel after motel at the end of a long, hot, tiring drive, this will seem like the understatement of the year.

Anyway, having handed out this sop to the sweating, homeless tourist, Mr. Glazier shows that what really worries him is the shortage of tourists. He wants to "keep changing and improving" Victoria, for example by closing the Government Street mall to vehicles and bringing in school bands every day to entertain visitors and locals. And of course he too wants more hotels.

Well, the dilemma of these promoters is too obvious to need pointing up, and one can hardly help sympathizing with them, but perhaps a few comments are in order. To begin with, I wonder if anyone has ever told Mr. Glazier that the more percipient observers of 20th century society have for some time suspected that "change" is not necessarily synonymous with "improvement."

Tourists do not come to Victoria to see it change. They come for the gardens, the parks, and the traditional, old world atmosphere.

Regardless of the number of hotel rooms, there will come a point when tourists will have nothing to look at but each other, and Victoria can be renamed Anywhere, U.S.A.

Come to think of it, that might be a great solution for everyone, particularly the developers. We could at last find a use for all that waste space in Beacon Hill park, which has nothing in it but trees, shrubs, birds and animals — a perfect spot to build another Disneyland. I'm surprised that nobody has thought of it before. — H.M. Harris, 928 Southgate Street.

Come see Mussels

The majority of Victoria sports fans are missing out on the best entertainment value in town — the Victoria Mussels. This is a locally owned and operated baseball franchise in the Northwest Baseball League. The Mussels have been a most competitive and interesting baseballteam.

The northwest baseball circuit is a class A league which is a stepping stone for young players attempting to reach the major leagues. Many players like Rick Monday of the Los Angeles Dodgers and Ozzie Smith, shortstop with the San Diego Padres, have got their professional start in the Northwest league.

The Victoria Mussels provide British Columbians — players like Roy Moretti of Victoria and Randy Holt of Vancouver — a chance at going up the baseball ladder.

Local owners Lynn and Jim Chapman have contributed much in the way of time, energy, enthusiasm and money to baseball in the Greater Victoria area.

Isn't it about time that the people of Victoria and the media got fully behind our team? If we don't get behind the locals, we may lose some of the best entertainment in town. — Rod Chilton, 348 Stannard Avenue.

Closer to home

A headline in a recent paper reads Glazier Urges Mair to Visit Site of Caribbean Oil Spill.

I urge Mr. Glazier to visit the site of the Clover point raw sewage spill. I urge him to tell us when we may expect results from the vast sum of money spent to eliminate it. — F. J. Cox, 302 Irving Road.

One man's weeds

I am the owner of that house at 1351 Vining Street which has been greatly in the news recently. I had asked the city to allow me to keep the wild plants growing in the backyard.

Unfortunately, when the decision of Victoria council's parks committee came out a couple of days later, both Victoria papers seem to have been interested in reporting only the humourous part.

Here is what you say:

If I eat all those weeds, the city's parks director is willing to eat his hat.

That the aldermen did not accept my argument that I eat many of these plants.

That one alderman said that he might have been inclined to believe me if I lived on the property.

That it was finally decided that the noxious weeds bylaw be enforced.

But the issue in my appeal to the city was not whether I am capable of eating the wild plants on my property, called weeds by those standing on the other side of the scale. Nor was the issue whether or not one has to live on the property where the herbs grow to make it possible for other people to believe that such herbs are indeed used as food supplements.

I have a lease with my tenants at 1351 Vining Street which allows me to proceed with my hobby according to my own taste and not according to the taste of others. Unfortunately that right is now being taken away from me by a city bylaw. Taste cannot be legislated.

What some people may wish to call obnoxious has the right to live and to flourish. The most important and fundamental issues which should have been in the headlines of both papers have been overlooked:

☐ What are noxious weeds to some people are beautiful wild plants in their natural state to others.

☐ Where do the human rights of the owner stand with regard to his freedom to do as he pleases in his own home?

☐ Did it ever occur to anyone that there are thousands of elderly people all over who do not have either the health or the energy at their age to cut the grass and clear their yards?

☐ Is it fair that two or three neighbors can get together with a petition and force others to do something against their will and at a financial cost that they may not be able to afford?

As a law-abiding citizen I will comply with the decision of council even though I feel that it wouldn't be an easy job for the city to differentiate between edible wild plants and what it calls noxious weeds.

It does not really matter whether edible wild plants or herbs are obtainable in the backyard of one's home or from some distant brush out in the country. What really matters is that someone like myself does not have the freedom to enjoy the food and the scenery of his backyard in its natural state because some bureaucratic system has decided that that is the way it should be. — Emil Stanley Wilson, 1351 Vining Street.

Minister replies

May I take this opportunity to comment on a recent article about welfare fraud which appeared in your paper. In the article the MLA for Burnaby Edmonds, Ms. Rosemary Brown, makes some allegations which I believe should be put straight.

The mininstry of human resources inspection program was responsible for terminating 714 income assistance cases involving monthly payments of nearly $254,000 to ineligible recipents last year.

While it is impossible to determine for how many months the terminated cases would have otherwise continued, it is obvious that if each case had lasted only three months, the total drain on the public would have been greater than $618,000, the total cost of the inspection program. Projected over 12 months, those same cases would have fraudulently collected over $3 million.

The impression that the cost of the program was double the amount of welfare fraud during the 1978/79 fiscal year is erroneous.

I noted that the 133 fraud convictions, which involved $343,500, discussed in the legislature represent only a portion of the cases successfully handled by the inspection program. In 436 cases, benefits were terminated and $355,200 was recovered without court action. Extended over 12 months, this recovery could have amounted to $4 million.

Cases leading to prosecution are only a fraction of the total investigated by the inspection program, and prosecutions are not the ultimate goal of our efforts. — Grace M. McCarthy, Minister of Human Resources.

Re: Ottawa Sets 3-year Restraint (Times, July 24):

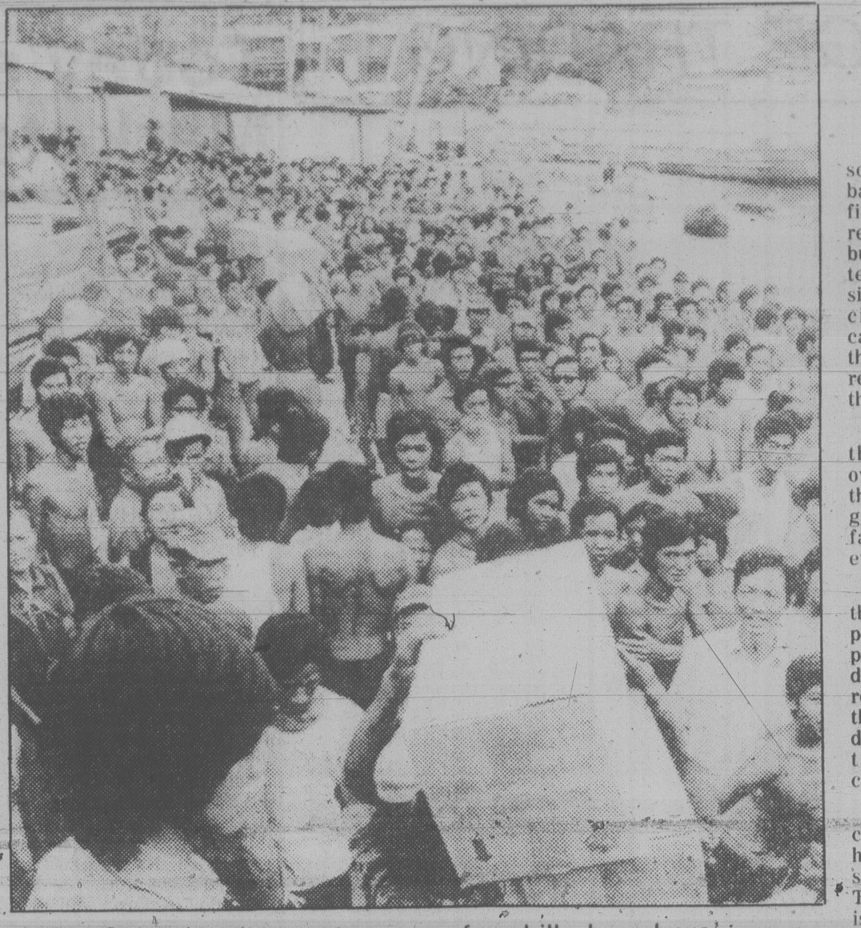
Prime Minister Clark, who so emphatically promised the moon during the election campaign, is already falling flat on his face.

Suddenly, Mr. Clark's finance minister has to clean up a "decade of Liberal economic mismanagement" before Clark can implement any of his utopic financial goodies which he could not afford in the first place.

Aren't there any ethics left in politics? Mr. Clark, in my book, is a pip! — H. Luetzen, 2532 Asquith Street.

Viet brain drain our gain

By BRIAN EADS



'Giant employment agency for skilled workers'

BANGKOK — In Vietnam there is one qualified doctor for every 2,000 Vietnamese; on the refugee island of Bidong, off Malaysia's east coast, there is one doctor for every 350 Vietnamese.

Good news for the refugees, bad news for Hanoi, and just one pointer to the fact that for Vietnam and its neighbors, Laos and Cambodia, the massive exodus of humanity they're experiencing is not all jam and gold bars.

Though few are inclined to listen, the Vietnamese have an explanation for why up to three-quarters of a million people have fled Vietnam since Saigon changed hands in the spring of 1975.

"The point is to perform a brain drain to the detriment of Vietnam and simultaneously raise a political hullabaloo," says an official publication entitled "Those Who Leave," made available to me last week.

The culprits, says Hanoi, are China and the United States. Their successes are indisputable.

The departure of 250,000 'Hoa' (ethnic Chinese from Vietnam's northern provinces) has caused widespread upheaval in the economy.

Hoa workers predominated in the docks of Haiphong, the country's biggest port, where ships must now wait up to three months to be unloaded. They dominated the rich anthracite mines of Quang Ninh province and exports of Vietnam's biggest foreign currency earner are down 50 per cent.

At porcelain factories, engineering works, and in transportation systems there are similar stories. In fisheries and agriculture (Vietnam has a three million-ton shortfall of rice this year), production has fallen.

There's less lamentation perhaps over the uncrowned kings of the southern economy — the 'Gasoline King,' the 'Steel King,' or the 'Monosodium Glutamate King,' — or many of those running the 30,000 businesses which continued to manipulate southern markets until their nationalism in March last year.

Perhaps the loss here is a potential loss of manpower for the 15 "new ecomomic zones" crucial to the country's ability to feed itself, and managerial skills that might have been used. The loss of thousands of doctors, engineers, electricians, nurses, dentists, pharmacists and mechanics (they account for a fifth of the working adults on Bidong) is real enough.

The loss of international aid resulting from the hullabaloo over refugees is equally real, and perhaps more devastating.

China was the first. In May last year some 90 reconstruction and development projects were cancelled, experts withdrawn and aid worth about $400 million a year suspended. Soviet-bloc countries promised to take over the projects, but so far only one — an important bridge — is in progress.

In recent months and weeks a variety of aid pledges have been withdrawn by the EEC countries, Australia, Sweden, Denmark, Norway and Finland. Last week Washington cut its contribution to the Asian Development Bank by $5 million — the amount the Bank has lent to Hanoi since 1975. Soviet-bloc countries are providing aid of more than $2.5 million a day, much of it is consumed in meeting immediate needs, like oil, and financing a massive balance-of-trade deficit.

Vietnam's 1976-1980 five-year plan is in a shambles and the government has radically revised its objectives, away from building and industrial base to meeting urgent, un-ambitious goals in agriculture, fisheries and forestry.

If anything, the dislocation and disruption caused by the refugee exodus from Laos is even greater.

Laos is among the world's poorest countries. It is the size of Britain, with a population of only three million. As many as 300,000 people have crossed into Thailand in the past four years, among them many skilled technicians and administrators.

"There are more doctors in Nong Khai (refugee camp) than in the whole of Laos," said one refugee worker. Probably this is an exaggeration, but it captures the flavor of the problem that wholesale flight has caused.

In Cambodia the flight of refugees and its impact pales into insignificance against the ravages wrought on the skilled and the educated by the Khmer Rouge regime of Pol Pot and his 'Gang of Six.'

Surprisingly many have successfully concealed their identity and, when the Thai Army allows, are now seeking to leave Cambodia. This adds further to the gaping holes in every field of national life. Anyone — save the dyed-in-the-wool Khmer Rouge butcher — is welcome.

The government has even invited back exiles already settled in other countries. Any skill is a skill in short supply.

Perhaps they've learned the lesson of the former regime, for whom refugees were the final undoing. After all, the Khmer National United Front for National Salvation, whose leaders are now installed in Phnom Penh, was conceived, born and nurtured among the estimated 300,000 people who fled eastwards from Khmer Rouge rule into southern Vietnam.

An educated Vietnamese refugee on Bidong Island said: 'Delegations are coming from all over the world with lists of which skilled people they want. It's like a giant employment agency. These countries don't know how lucky they are.'

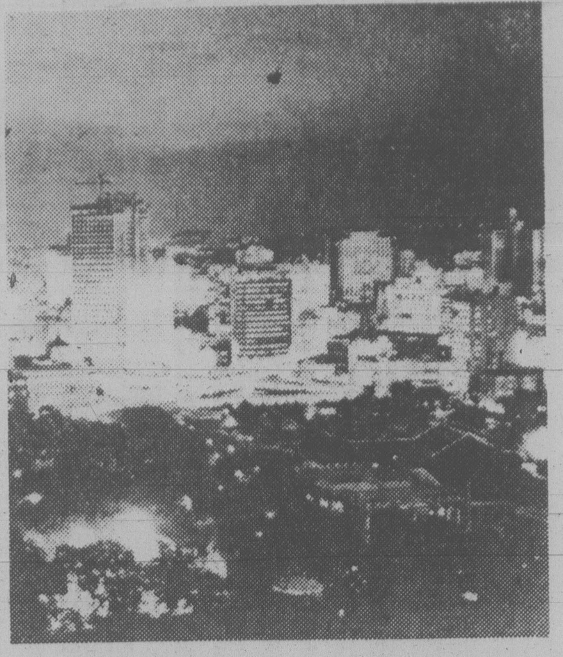
South Korea's boom city

By MARK GAYN



SEOUL SKYLINE . . . mind-boggling growth

SEOUL — Years ago, some North Korean poohbahs came here to talk reunification with the South Koreans. They landed at the bustling Kimpo Airport, entered shiny, black limousines, and headed for the city. But the closer they came, the heavier became the traffic. By the time they reached the heart of Seoul, the traffic barely crawled.

The Communist visitors, their hosts said, seemed overwhelmed. After all, in their own capital of Pyongyang, to the north, there are far too few cars to produce even a mini-jam.

However, they recovered their wits quickly. What happened, the Pyongyang newspapers reported the next day, was that the South Korean government, to impress the North Koreans, had ordered every car in the capital to come to the city centre.

The North Koreans should come back. For the traffic here has become as monstrous as it is in Hong Kong, Tokyo and Manhattan. This is a boom city, with lots of money and growing consumer appetites.

The automobile showrooms this year have been unloading somewhere around 8,000 passenger cars a month. Cranes that look like prehistoric monsters are silhouetted against the crimson sky. The streets are dug up, the fancy new hotels go in for such unostentatious decor as huge waterfalls in their lobbies, and the restaurants, both greasy-chopstick and haute cuisine, are jammed.

The growth here is mind-boggling. In 1966, Seoul had 3.5 million people. Today, it's bursting at the seams with 8.3 million (in a nation of 37 million). The farmers are doing well, but their sons and daughters are fleeing to the big city — and the village population is shrinking at the rate of 200,000 a year.

Of every 20 people in this capital, only one lived here 30 years ago. Of the others, a good proportion are yesterday's peasants. The emotional ties that bind them to the countryside are still strong.

"But Seoul is the Big Korean Apple, the Hub, the place of dreams and opportunities, and for all its noise, pollution, dreadful overcrowding, this is where the young want to be.'

All statistics about South Korea are awesome. Since 1965, the rate of economic growth has been galloping ahead at around 10 per cent a year — and in the past three years the rate has been 12.5 per cent.

Seventeen years ago, each person's share of the Gross National Product (the total of all goods and services produced) was $87. Today it stands at $1,550. This is still less than one-fifth the figure in Canada or the United States, and roughly one-half of the Japanese figure. But considering where the country stood a generation ago, the rise is extraordinary.

But today's prosperity comes coupled with anxiety. The economy here is not overheated; it is boiling. The inflation rate last year was around 18 to 20 per cent (any Seoul housewife would tell you it was closer to 40 per cent). But most people made out all right, for skilled and managerial help is scarce, and the wages and salaries have been rising at 33 per cent a year.

If you went to your favorite bank to borrow money, you could easily get it — at better than 20 per cent a year. And the government, caught in the momentum of the boom, has been printing money — 40 per cent added to the banknotes in circulation last year; only 28 per cent is hoped for this year.

The first warning of the approaching storm came in April, with the collapse of the Yulsan Industrial Co., the youngest of the new crop of Korea's giant jacks-of-all-trades multinationals.

A number of people are now on trial, the government has fired the presidents of three of Seoul's five commercial banks because they had been too lax with their loans to Yulsan, and the probers are huddling over their pocket calculators trying to figure out the company's debts. At this point, the total exceeds $360 million.

What went wrong is not entirely clear. There was certainly mismanagement, and there may have been some underhanded business. But the worst culprit may have been the slump. Exports are the lifeblood of South Korea, and so far this year they have been declining.

Top economic advisers to President Park Chung Hee told me the country would have to tighten its belt in the next year or two. The growth rate is to be held down to just 9 per cent. (Oh, what ecstasies you would see in Canada and the United States if they could only do that well!), and a tight-money policy is in effect.

The men who help to administer this country are confident that the boom will return in a year or two; it's just around the corner. Many of the ambassadors here agree.

One of them says, "You will note that the atmosphere here is not morose. The people are hard-working, disciplined, go-getting, intent on bettering their lot. I asked an official if he had ever heard of a strike. He said, 'Yes, there was a strike by Korean workers in Saudi Arabia.' They demanded longer hours. They got paid by the hour, and they wanted to earn more."

This perhaps is an idyllic picture. The government of Park Chung Hee is heavy-handed, and a great many people feel it's time for a change.

(In the last election, the opposition out-polled the government by 1 per cent, but it did not matter. Under the "Yushin Revitalization Constitution", the president appoints one-third of the members in the chamber — a device that makes it hard for him to lose on any vote).

Strikes are forbidden; the press is controlled.

But one finds here none of that popular anger which explodes in revolutions. The times would have to be much, much harder to produce a real threat to the austere, no-nonsense General Park Chung Hee, who now rules this nation.

The president started with a humble confession of inadequacy. Always be humble, especially if you are arrogant, goes the old political maxim. Carter's display of humility was one in which he could take not only pride but also satisfaction, since his popularity rating in the polls shot up several points almost immediately.

After the humility came the dynamism. Always be dynamic, especially if you don't plan to do much, goes the old political maxim. Carter boarded his dynamic presidential jet, burned a large quantity of oil to go to Kansas City and made a second speech on television in which he asked us to join him in "this war."

This accorded with the old political maxim which states, always elevate intractable domestic problems to the level of "war," especially if you can't go on ignoring them without inviting defeat at the polls. (cf. Lyndon Johnson's War on Poverty, Gerald Ford's War on Inflation.)

The call for war support was issued in a louder voice than the president usually uses and by gestures with a clenched fist. Always look tough when you talk war, goes the old political maxim, especially if you are talking about intractable domestic problems instead of war.

For some reason, neither press nor television said that the humility, the dynamism, the war call, the raised voice and the clenched fist meant there was "a new Carter." This defied an old journalistic maxim which goes, always declare an old, familiar politician to be a new politician when he changes his voice level, speech writer or image technician. (cf. The seven "new Nixons" created by journalism between 1953 and 1973.)

Several journalists, however, did observe that Carter's conduct suggested he had been born yet again. Never pass up the chance for a wisecrack, goes the old journalistic maxim, especially if the polls show not many people are likely to be offended.

Continuing to charge off in all directions, the president flew back to Washington and collected the resignations of all his top hands, though he intended to keep all but a handful. Always charge off in all directions, goes the old political maxim, especially if you want to create enough headlines to conceal the fact that you are not going anyplace.

Press and television immediately said calling for all hands to resign was unprecedented, although President Nixon had done the same thing after the 1972 election. Always convert a bemusing event into melodrama by calling it unprecedented, goes the old journalistic maxim, especially if it isn't.

Precisely who or what the enemy was in the war for which the president requested support was not clear. Stuart Eizenstat, in a famous memo to the boss, had wanted him to name OPEC the villain. The president did not. Never make an enemy who can give you more trouble than you can handle, goes the old political maxim, especially if you can take on an enemy who is a pushover.

Despite his humility, the president managed to identify several enemies who had failed the country much worse than he had. Among them were Washington, Congress and Big Oil.

All are pushovers, and the president pushed them over with much humility and fist-clenching. Washington, he suggested, was the worst. One had the impression he was being held prisoner in Washington and compelled by subtly sinister means into governing inadequately.

Making Washington the enemy of the people's goodness, of course, was a tactic he used successfully to get elected in 1976. Always go back to what worked in your first big success, goes the old political maxim, especially if nothing else seems to work. (cf. President Nixon's efforts throughout Watergate to recreate his triumphant "Checkers" speech of 1952.)

As for Big Oil, the president announced that he had squads of auditors poised to attack their books. There is no old maxim being observed here, but only a universal truth. Nobody loves a rich man, and almost everybody will pay good money to see banana peels placed under his Guccis.

As for Congress, its vulnerability is understood by small children. Always denounce the Congress, goes the old political maxim, especially if you are humble about your own inadequacies.

As the week ended, hints from the White House suggested that the president was also thinking of adding the Washington news industry to the list of opponents responsible for his inadequacies. There were complaints that these wretches "sensationalize" with wanton extravagance and impede and distort the president's efforts to communicate with the good people outside Washington.

Always blame the news industry for your inadequacies, goes the old political maxim, especially if they devote as much attention to your inadequacies as they devote to your humility. (cf. John F. Kennedy, Lyndon Johnson, Richard Nixon.)

The president, of course, is also waging a campaign to be re-elected in 1980. Washington is the only place on earth so despicable, goes the old political maxim, that people will struggle like tigers to get there and fight like lions to stay there.

Company reports

Weldwood

Weldwood of Canada Ltd. has announced that net earnings for the first six months of 1979 were $21,690,000 or $4.41 a share, compared with $12,650,000 or $2.56 a share for the same period last year.

Net earnings for the second quarter were $11,112,000 or $2.26 a share, compared with $8,160,000 or $1.66 a share for the second quarter of 1978.

Weldwood said in a news release the record sales and earnings was due to strong pulp and overseas lumber markets.

Lornex Mining

Lornex Mining Corp. Ltd. has announced net earnings for the six months ended June 30 were $15.8 million or $1.91 a share, compared with $4.5 million or 54 cents a share for the same period last year.

Lornex said in a news release the improved earnings were due to higher copper prices, including higher foreign exchange gains.

Shell Canada

Shell Canada has announced first half 1979 earnings, after preferred share dividend requirements of $7.8 million, of $98.7 million or 99 cents per Class A common share. A company statement said the earnings were an increase of 43 per cent over depressed first half results in 1978 of earnings of $69 million or 69 cents a share. Exploration and development costs reached $148 million in the first six months of this year, a record for first-half resource investment, the statement said. Shell reported higher sales in crude oil, liquids and natural gas. It attributed a 21-percent increase in crude oil and natural gas liquids production at 12,400 cubic meters per day in major part to new extraction facilities at the company's gas plant in Waterton, Alta. Increased export and domestic demand accounted for average daily sales of natural gas at 19 million cubic meters, a 7-per cent increase from the first half of 1978. Sales of oil and chemical products were also up, at 42,800 cubic meters daily, an increase of 8 per cent from the first six months of 1978.

Celanese

Celanese Canada Inc. has reported that net earnings for the second quarter of this year were $6.3 million, or 46 cents a share — up from $1.2 million, or eight cents a share, in the same period in 1978.

Sales were $89.6 million, an increase from $75.1 million in the second quarter a year ago.

Earnings for the half totalled $11.3 million, or 82 cents a share, on sales of $175 million.

The results include a tax credit in each quarter of $130,000.

Northern Telecom

MONTREAL (CP) — Northern Telecom Ltd. reports it had consolidated sales of $951.7 million for the first half of 1979, compared with $648.8 million for the same period last year.

Profits for the first six months rose to $56.3 million, or $1.90 a share, up from $43.3 million, or $1.60 a share, recorded before an extraordinary profit item in the first half of 1978.

Sycor Inc., Data 100 Corp. and Spectron Corp., acquired last year, contributed $184.2 million to first half sales, the corporation reported.

Northern chairman Robert C. Scrivener said all corporation subsidiaries achieved higher sales and profits, and singled out the performance of its United States telecommunications subsidiary, Northern Telecom Inc.

Scrivener said the subsidiary had doubled order input and sales, and more than doubled profits compared with the first half of 1978.

He said sales to the Northern's largest customer, Bell Canada, might be affected by a current strike by technicians in Bell's Quebec and Ontario districts. However, sales to Bell should level out by the end of the year, he said.

N.S. Savings

HALIFAX (CP) — Nova Scotia Savings and Loan Co. reports lower net earnings after tax, including securities gains, during the first six months of this year compared with the first half of 1978.

The earnings were $639,049, or 51 cents a share, compared with last year's figures of $913,354, or 80 cents a share.

The company said the high cost of borrowing affected operations adversely in the first half and added that firm predictions about the next six months are impossible.

Dominion Bridge

MONTREAL (CP) — Dominion Bridge Co. Ltd. says its net income for the first half of 1979 rose to a record $20 million (U.S.) or $1.88 a share, up 34 per cent from $14.9 million or $1.40 a share in the same period a year earlier.

Sales and other revenue totalled $442 million (U.S.), compared with $416 million for the same period last year. Backlog of orders on June 30, 1979, amounted to $518 million (U.S.), compared with $524 million a year earlier.

The company, 52-per-cent owned by the Canadian Pacific group, recently announced that a new share issue in Canada and loans by AMCA International Corp. of Hanover, N.H., its chief U.S. subsidiary, would make more than $200 million available for expansion.

Directors decided to issue a third-quarter dividend of 40 cents (Canadian) per share. The dividend is payable Sept. 28 to shareholders of record on Sept. 7.

Bralorne

CALGARY (CP) — Bralorne Resources Ltd. of Calgary has reported gross revenues for the first half of 1979 of $60 million, an increase of $21 million or 54 per cent from the first half of 1978.

Net income of $4.5 million or 67 cents a share increased by 59 per cent from $2.8 million or 45 cents a share last year.

Bralorne president F. W. Fitzpatrick said the revenue growth in absolute dollar terms was almost equally divided between new acquisitions and internal growth. Increased drill collar shipments from Omsco Industries Inc., higher tool rental income from Jarco Services Ltd., and higher gas shipments at improved prices were major contributors to net income growth.

Alta. Energy Co.

CALGARY (CP) — Alberta Energy Co. Ltd. has reported first-half profits of $12 million compared with $8.5 million for the first six months of 1978.

It attributed the improvement to gains in oil and natural gas revenues and investments in pipelines, coal and other operations.

Per-share earnings were 79 cents compared with 56 cents last year.

Imperial Oil

TORONTO (CP) — Imperial Oil Ltd. reports earnings of $197 million of $1.51 a share for the first six months of this year, up from $146 million or $1.12 for the first half of 1978.

Second-quarter earnings rose to $108 million or 83 cents from $74 million or 57 cents the corresponding period a year ago.

Capital and exploration expenditures during the first half rose to $367 million from $254 million a year earlier and to $199 million from $130 million during the second quarter.

Westcoast

VANCOUVER (CP) — Westcoast Transmission Co. Ltd. has reported net earnings of $24,381,000 or 65 cents a share for the first six months of 1979, compared with earnings of $22,090,000 or 60 cents a share for the same period last year.

The company said in a press release that operating revenue was up 21 per cent to $504,808,000, largely the result of an increase in gas sales volumes and higher average gas sales prices.

Cons. Bathurst

MONTREAL (CP) — Consolidated-Bathurst Inc. has reported earnings of $24 million for the second quarter of 1979, or $1.05 per share, compared with $13.2 million, or 58 cents a share, in the second quarter of 1978.

This did not include an extraordinary credit of $700,000 which the company said came from a reduction of income taxes by using prior years' tax losses of some subsidiaries.

Not counting the extraordinary credit, earnings for the first six months were $42.7 million, or $1.85 cents a share, compared with $18.4 million, or 80 cents, a year ago. With the credit, six-month earnings were $43.9 million.

Consol's sales in the second quarter were $303 million, up from $258 million a year ago. Sales for the first six months were up 18.3 per cent over the first six months of 1978.

The company attributed its improvements in earnings to an increase in the volume of shipments for most of its products, to higher prices and to the weak Canadian dollar.

McDonnell Doug.

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — McDonnell Douglas Corp. posted a 34 per cent increase in net earnings on sales of $1.3 billion in the second quarter of the year, a company official said.

Net earnings are $53 million, or $1.92 a share, compared with $35 million or 90 cents a share for the second quarter a year ago, James McDonnell, corporation chairman, said. Sales totalled $973 million in the second quarter of 1978.

Increased deliveries of the company's commercial jetliners, including the controversial DC-10, primarily accounted for the rise in sales revenue, McDonnell said, while higher sales volume, higher interest income and a lower tax rates helped raised the company's earnings.

Potash record

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian potash exports to markets outside North America totalled a record three million tonnes during the year ended June 30, up 28 per cent over those the previous year, reports Canpotex Ltd., marketing agency for Saskatchewan potash producers. The total exceeded by 400,000 tonnes the previous record set in 1974-75.

U.S. car sales decline again

DETROIT (Reuter) — Car sales in the United States continued to decline in mid-July, but industry analysts were cheered by several factors which might indicate that the worst may be over for the automobile companies.

Car sales for the July 11 to 20 reporting period declined 11.7 per cent to 231,242 cars, after a drop of more than 18 per cent in the previous period.

General Motors Corp., the country's largest car manufacturer, reported an increase of nine per cent but Ford Motor Co., the second largest, had a 28.3 per cent decline and Chrysler had a 30 per cent drop.

Included in the period's total is an estimate of 3,000 cars for American Motors Corp. compared with actual sales of 4,358 cars last year.

Future bright for Inco despite Sudbury strike

TORONTO (CP) — Inco Metals Co. expects balanced market conditions for the rest of 1979, says Johannes P. Schade, the company's senior vice-president.

Demand and supply is forecast at about 100 million pounds a month and consumer and producer inventories should be at normal levels, Schade said.

About 12,000 workers at the Sudbury, Ont., operation of Inco Metals Co., a division of Inco Ltd. of Toronto, returned to their jobs in the nickel mines recently following an 8½-month strike.

Schade said latest estimates show 1979 nickel consumption will be nearly 1.3 billion pounds, about nine per cent more than 1978.

"Additionally, customers and nickel merchants have replenished their depleted inventories in the first half, which resulted in a further demand of around 50 million to 100 million pounds," he said in an interview.

Anti-war leader Marcuse dies at 81

MARCUSE . . . hero of New Left

STARNBERG, West Germany (AP) — Philospher Herbert Marcuse, a leader of the anti-war movement in the United States in the 1960s, died Sunday night after a short illness, a spokesman for his family announced today.

He had celebrated his 81st birthday July 19.

Marcuse, who retired in 1970 from the University of California at San Diego, was visiting his native Germany as a guest of the Max Planck Institute, a scientific organization.

A native of Berlin, Marcuse emigrated to the United States in 1934 and became a citizen in 1940.

He was with the Institute of Social Research at Columbia University from 1934 to 1940, then served with the wartime Office of Strategic Services and the U.S. state department from 1941 to 1950.

He returned to the academic world in 1951, teaching at Columbia's Russian Institute and at Harvard until 1954, when he became professor of politics and philosophy at Brandeis University. He went from Brandeis to the San Diego faculty as professor of philosophy in 1965.

His writings, particularly One-Dimensional Man, published in 1964, made him a hero of the New Left.

He told an interviewer in 1968 that, "in my books I have tried to make a critique of society — and not only capitalist society — in terms that avoid all ideology."

"I have tried to show that contemporary society is a repressive society in all its aspects, that even the comfort, the prosperity, the alleged political and moral freedom are utilized for oppressive ends."

Marcuse — pronounced Markooza — was a proponent of "the power of negative thinking" and invented the slogan "major refusal" to express his belief that individuals should reject the enticements of the modern technological society.

"The goods and services that the individuals buy control their needs and petrify their faculties," he wrote. "They have innumerable gadgets that keep them occupied and divert their attention from the real issue which is the awareness that they could both work less and determine their own needs and satisfactions."

Marcuse contended that modern society provided man with material well being but he said it was a happiness born of an ignorance — "a state of anesthesia" — of what man could become.

A 75th tribute to Marcuse written by Jean Amery for the Cologne newspaper Stadt-Anzeiger said "his extremism was greater than the world understood in the late '60s when he was fashionable."

"The main thing that probably marked him from conventional Marxism was that he considered the work force had long since been absorbed into the system by means of 'repressive tolerance' and therefore incapable" of rejected society's enticements, Amery wrote.

Marcuse was harshly criticized for his advocacy of revolution and its revolutionaries, but Amery wrote that he "placed all his hope in peripheral groups. This was the truly original aspect of his philosophy."

As Marcuse put it, change will be forced not only by the modern counterpart of Marx's proletariat — "the outcasts and outsiders, the exploited and persecuted . . . but also by the young, the sensitive, the educated."

Big bucks on Low Bucks

A lot of work and money went on display on the weekend as the Vancouver Island Street Rod Association staged its fifth annual Low Bucks Rod Run.

There were 115 entries from California, Oregon, Washington, Alberta and B.C.

The event featured a pancake-and-egg breakfast, games for youngsters and their parents, a fox hunt and a rod run Sunday to Fort Rodd Hill.

Frustrated builder offers park land

Kajo Holdings Ltd. president Ken Davies said today he will offer Saanich his property at the bottom of White Rock Street at Ten Mile Point as a municipal park.

Davies, who said he will take a $10,000 loss, made the offer to Mayor Mel Couvelier after learning council is holding a special meeting tonight to try to quash a permit issued by the regional board of health. The permit would allow Davies to have a sewage outfall into the sea on the site.

He said he had wanted to build a home for himself and his family but after almost a year of negotiations he is completely frustrated.

He and his engineer, Eric Hole, proposed to install a cromaglass treatment system that would introduce oxygen into the sewage so that by the time it reached the sea it would be 95 to 98 per cent pure.

Davies said he is pollution-conscious and had wanted to use this system to keep pollution to the minimum.

He said the syetem is exactly the same as that used by Brentwood College which dumps the treated sewage into non-tidal water.

Hole confirmed the proposed system has been in use for years and is produced by Northern Purification Services Ltd. of Vancouver.

Davies said it would have been simple for him to get a permit if he had merely proposed to build a sea wall, put in a soil field and get a percolation test. Instead, he said, he had tried to get the least polluting system available at a cost of about $5,000.

Faulty septic tanks in the Ten Mile Point area have caused problems for several years.

If council is really concerned about pollution, Davies said, it should begin a five-year clean-up program of the area.

Couvelier said Friday council will consider whether to take legal action to try to overturn or prevent a permit being issued Davies.

Regional directors had voted to allow the permit by a 6-4 vote.

When the vote was upheld at the regional board of health's meeting, Saanich directors failed in a bid to have the decision delayed two weeks to allow municipal staff to decide what action could be taken to stop the permit being issued.

A. No. The most common name is the Chinese one of Chang. According to estimates, between 9.7 per cent and 12.1 per cent of all Chinese are named Chang, indicating there are at least 75 million Changs. This is more than the entire population of all but seven of the 158 other sovereign countries of the world.

Detector saves family in $40,000 house fire

By PAUL MINVIELLE
Times Staff

"Smoke was just pouring up through the cold air vent. I just got the baby and ran."

For 48-year-old grandmother Grace Hume, the flight from her blazing Saanich home at 4012 Wiseton early Sunday morning was terrifying.

Forced to flee the burning house, she knew her husband, Ernest, was still in the basement trying to waken their 17-year-old son, Gerald.

Two years ago, the Humes lost another son in a Sidney motorcycle accident.

"I was so afraid," Mrs. Hume said this morning as she recalled the events at about 2:30 a.m. Sunday. "It's been an awful seven years."

She said that four years ago her father died and almost three years before that her brother.

She said the family was in the last stages of remodelling their home. Gone are the new drapes, new carpeting and a new television set.

Damage is estimated at $40,000. Officials were at work today trying to determine the cause.

Mrs. Hume credits a smoke detector with saving the family.

"I guess all of our neighbors are going to be getting alarms now."

She said the alarm sounded just after 2 a.m. The Humes were baby-sitting their 16-month-old granddaughter, Jennifer.

She said the alarm went off, then stopped momentarily.

"Then it just screeched."

Mrs. Hume grabbed Jennifer and she and her husband ran into the hall. Hume opened the basement foor and yelled at his son, who recently finished renovating his basement room where he has expensive stereo equipment.

When there was no response, Hume ran down the stairs. Gerald had just returned from a trip to Calgary and was sleeping soundly. Any chance of his hearing the alarm was lessened by the fact he had recently soundproofed his room to accommodate his stereo equipment.

Mrs. Hume dashed outside and yelled in the direction of a neighbor's house for someone to call the fire department. At least three neighbors did.

Meanwhile, her husband got out of the grade-level basement via a door and her son dove out the window.

A faulty toaster caused a $20,000 fire at the Carnarvon Manor apartment block at 1243 Bay on Sunday afternoon.

About $5,000 of the damage was caused to the apartment of Michael and Louise Hubbard. The balance of the damage total was caused by smoke in the halls and other apartments on the second floor of the four-storey apartment building.

First student for OLI

B.C.'s new Open Learning Institute has its first Greater Victoria student — Betty Douglas of 188 Beach Drive.

The provincial government-sponsored institution is offering three credit university courses this fall and a selection of high school courses. More courses will be available in Jauary.

Douglas is working as an accountant and says she has been trying to find a way to complete a university education in her spare time.

"My daughter just graduated from the University of Victoria with a BA degree and I was beginning to feel left behind," said Douglas, 53, who didn't complete her education in her native England.

New parks boss having a long week

Al Smith started work 29 years ago as a laborer in the city parks department and was told the job was only for a week.

"It's been a mighty long week," said Smith, who recently was appointed city parks administrator.

"I've seen plenty of changes since then — parks that were scarcely used are now in danger of being over-used."

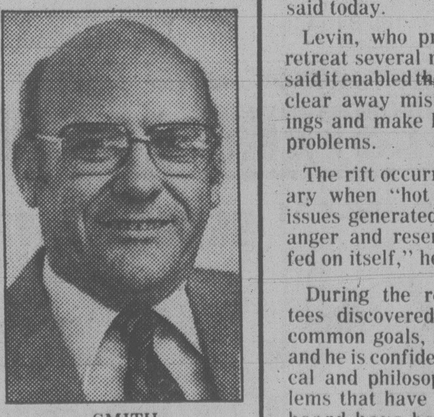
Smith succeeded Cliff Bate who has retired.

All city parks are heavily used, Smith said.

"The best indicator to determine their use, of course, is the grass. The grass in some areas of Beacon Hill Park wears out quickly because of heavy use and we have to replace it with new turf. We now operate a turf nursery simply for this purpose."

He recalled that not too many years ago there was a bylaw prohibiting people from even walking on boulevard grass.

"That's gone now, thank goodness. After all, grass was made to walk on."



SMITH
. . . succeeds Cliff Bate

Smith is high on the Capital Region parks system, but thinks there should be more park waterfront property.

He considers Thetis Lake Park the jewel of the region's parks.

"It's got something for everyone," he said. "There's nothing like it in the area."

Trustee retreat success

A day-long retreat Sunday by Greater Victoria school board members was a success, trustee Martin Levin said today.

Levin, who proposed the retreat several months ago, said it enabled the trustees to clear away misunderstandings and make headway on problems.

The rift occurred in January when "hot and heavy issues generated animosity, anger and resentment that fed on itself," he said.

During the retreat trustees discovered they have common goals, Levin said, and he is confident the political and philosophical problems that have plagued the board have been cleared up.

The trustees talked on two levels — how to achieve the spirit of trust and co-operation and how to improve board procedures and operations.

An ad hoc committee will be formed to study a report by schools superintendent Allan Stables on increasing school board efficiency.

The location of the retreat was kept secret. It lasted from 11 a.m. until about 9 p.m.

North Island . . . a new, busy world

THERE IS A WORLD outside the world we know, the poet tells us. By the same token there's a Vancouver Island that we knew of only by repute until we pointed out noses north on the new highway.

It's a big country, uncluttered and mostly empty, scarred by logging works old and new, and occasionally surprising the traveller with a settlement or a vigorous town.

Port Hardy is one of these. And from Port Hardy radiates roads both gravel and blacktop which we spent a day exploring.

One road led us to the little fishing port of Coal Harbor, where for some years after the Second World War whalers kept a land station busy dismantling and rendering the giant carcasses of their prey.

A pair of colossal whale jaw-bones set in the earth gave us our direction. We followed down a winding dirt road to the old seaplane base which the whalers took over.

The base drowses deserted in the sun, weeds poking up through its concrete. The hangars still stand. The broad concrete apron of the landing ramp up which whales were hauled still slopes to the sea. A one-wall "building" in razzle-dazzle camouflage reminded us of years when the prospects of Japanese attack made such subterfuge necessary.

But that was long ago. No trace remains of the far-patrolling flying boats that used the base, and even the smell of whale has vanished.

The land has other reminders of past endeavor. Another road took us to Fort Rupert where, startlingly, the stone chimney of a long-gone Hudson's Bay Company post rears from a vacant lot in the midst of an Indian village.

Fort Rupert did not prosper. One of the factors that caused it to be abandoned was the hostility of its proud and salty neighbors, the northern Kwakiutl. But the village still stands, and it has produced more than its share of artists. The Hunts, for instance, carvers supreme, and the great Mungo Martin.

Well on in the day, we found ourselves back in Port McNeill. We parked on a hill above the ferry wharf, the community of Sointula visible on one island across the water, and Alert Bay more distant on another.

The ferry was heading in, our go-light luggage was in the car, and with a couple of days still in hand, we were free to go where we wished.

"How about heading over to Alert Bay?" Win suggested. "It's a long time since we've been there."

So we joined the ferry lineup, and put bustling Port McNeill behind us.

Sointula wharf was being expanded and cars couldn't go ashore to a community which still runs heavily to inhabitants of Finland stock. But from the ferry, we noted a large new motel on the foreshore — a needed addition to a town which has been for several years without accommodation for the traveller.

Then on to Alert Bay, which had changed not at all since our last visit.

Private cars and a multitude of taxis still swooped along the narrow waterfront main street. The docks were crowded with fishboats great and small, and there was a constant coming and going of work craft in the channel.

It is an adventure to drive in Alert Bay. One needs eyes in the back of his head. We pulled in at one end of the town, with a muscle-car ravening at our rear bumper, for a look at some of the finest totems this coast offers.

These Alert Bay totems, grouped by the cemetery, are showing signs of weather now. But they still stand in magnificent heraldry, brooding over the town. Elsewhere (Victoria please note) Alert Bay has raised what it claimed to be the world's tallest totem.

At the other end of Alert Bay, out along that winding, shore-hugging business street, stands the stark edifice that was for many years St. Michael's Residential School. The white paint is shedding from its red brick, giving it a scrofulous air, but it is by no means abandoned.

It is, in fact, a veritable rabbit warren of specialized classes. As we passed through to the neat cafeteria in the basement, a lecturer was holding forth on navigation to a class of Indian fishermen.

We had breakfast in that same tucked-away little cafeteria, then started south with the feeling that we had expanded our Vancouver Island horizons considerably.

It's a trip I most heartily recommend to anyone with time to spare. The road is good and the driving easy. And there's a surprising amount to see and do in that busy North Island world beyond Campbell River.

TOTEM POLE EFFECT is result of scuffle during American League baseball game Sunday in Milwaukee. New York's Lou Piniella trys to pull third-baseman Jim Gantner of Brewers off Yankee coach Mike Ferraro, who had joined battle after Gantner charged Piniella following close play. Players from both clubs invaded field and Gantner was ejected from game, won 5-3 by Brewers. (AP laserphoto)

Expos scupper Bucs, back in NL penthouse

By The Canadian Press

Montreal, knocked out of first place for the first time in 45 days Saturday night, held a team meeting before Sunday's game, decided they liked their former place better, and promptly returned to the top spot in the National League East.

Andre Dawson drove in three runs with a bases-loaded triple and Rusty Staub cracked a pair of RBI singles as the Expos salvaged the finale of its four-game series with Pittsburgh, 5-3.

The victory gave the Expos a half-game lead over the Pirates.

Meanwhile, Houston pitcher James Rodney Richard who normally is an imposing figure at 6-foot-8 — until he stands at home plate — suddenly turned hitter against Los Angeles pitcher Terry Forster.

Richard, who went into the game with a .105 average, is up to .121 now, thanks to the ninth-inning single he almost wasn't allowed to hit.

Later, he scored on Cesar Cedeno's triple and Houston Astros had a 4-3 National League win over the Dodgers.

With his team leading Cincinnati Reds by 3½ in the West Division, Houston manager Bill Virdon admitted he had thought of sending a pinch-hitter up in Richard's place.

"Sure, that always crosses your mind in that situation," said Virdon, "but we decided if he was all right we would go with him. And fortunately, he was the hitter we needed."

For nine innings, Richard had been the pitcher the Astros needed, scattering five Los Angeles hits, striking out eight Dodgers to raise his major league-leading total to 182 and recording his ninth consecutive win over Los Angeles since 1976.

Meanwhile, the Reds beat Atlanta Braves 9-4, St.Louis Cardinals clipped Philadelphia Phillies 6-5, San Francisco Giants beat San Diego Padres 4-2 and New York Mets blanked Chicago Cubs 4-0 in a game shortened by rain to seven innings.

Third baseman Ray Knight drove in five runs with two doubles and a homer, pacing Cincinnati's rout of Atlanta.

In the American League, former Minnesota Twins players Rod Carew and Dan Ford made life miserable for their former team as California Angles beat the Twins 9-3.

Carew, for the 40th time in his major league career, had four hits in the game. And Ford belted a two run homer among three hits.

In other AL games Sunday, Baltimore Orioles beat Kansas City Royals 6-4; Milwaukee Brewers trimmed New York Yankees 5-3; Detroit Tigers defeated Toronto Blue Jays 5-4; Cleveland Indians stopped Chicago White Sox 9-6; Oakland A's nipped Seattle Mariners 2-1 and Boston Red Sox beat Texas Rangers 3-2.

Wenzel, Jackson Northwest champs

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — Jeff Wenzel of Federal Way, Wash. defeated Humberton Pino of San Ysidro, Calif., 6-2, 6-3 Saturday to win the men's title in the 86th Pacific Northwest tennis tournament.

Top-seeded Mary Jackson of Sacramento, Calif., defeated Maryann Raftis, an unseeded entrant from Kent, Wash., 6-3, 7-5 to win the women's crown.

Barlow captures Ontario crown

MISSISSAUGA, Ont. — Second-seeded Wendy Barlow, 19, of Victoria captured the women's singles championship of the Ontario Open tennis tournament Sunday with a 6-0, 6-7, 6-3 victory over Nicole Marois, 20, of Quebec City.

Two-time Canadian men's singles champion Harry Fritz needed only 44 minutes to rout powerful left-hander Josef Brabenec of Vancouver 6-0, 6-1 in his final.

For Fritz, 28, the win was worth $1,000.

In doubles competition, Brabenec and Richard Legendre of Quebec teamed up to beat Derek Segal of Toronto and Bob Bettauer of Vancouver 6-3, 6-1.

In women's doubles, Marois and fellow-Quebecer Helene Pelletier lost 6-4, 6-7, 6-4 to Lee Myrs of Maple, Ont., and Diana Dimmer of Toronto.

Barlow was forced to three sets by Lise Senn of Toronto, 6-2, 0-6, 6-4 in Saturday's semi-finals. Marois scored the major upset of the tournament when she ousted top-seeded Amada Tobin of Australia 6-3, 6-3.

B.C., Ontario hoop winners

British Columbia men and Ontario women finished with perfect records as they scored victories in final games Sunday to win their respective competitions in the inaugural West Coast Basketball Classic tournament at the University of Victoria.

B.C. captured the men's crown with a 68-59 decision over Ontario. Ken Larsen of Cowichan sparked the attack with 28 points while Doug Kelsey of Vancouver, who was later chosen as the most-valuable player and a member of the all-star team, and Mike Jackel, who was also picked as an all-star, each contributed 14 points.

Ontario topped B.C. 66-44 to claim the women's title. Maria Babyn led Ontario with 12 points and Leslie Sacre topped B.C. with 16.

In earlier men's games, B.C. had downed Manitoba 69-57 and Seattle All-Stars, 90-78.

Ontario women had earlier tripped Seattle All-Stars "A" 95-45 and Seattle All-Stars "B", 66-65.

Rounding out the men's all-star team were Gord Herbert of B.C. and Tom Choloch and Fred Murrell of Ontario. Selected as runners-up were Wilhelm Boggild and Gerry Henry of Ontario, Belaineh Degeufi of Manitoba, Rod Taylor of Seattle and Larsen.

Debbie Knowles of Ontario was picked as MVP and made the all-star women's team with clubmate Misty Thomas, Luanne Hebb and Sandy Lewis of B.C. and Kelly Kranda of Seattle "B". Runners-up were Cathy Percy and Dana Fish of Seattle "A", Cindy McMaster and Joy Bellinger of Ontario, and Shanni Claridge of B.C.

In earlier games Sunday in the competition for junior teams, Seattle "B" downed Seattle "A" 61-47 in a women's contest and Seattle men tripped Manitoba 70-65.

On Saturday, Ontario men whipped Seattle 92-58 and the B.C. women crushed Seattle "B" 66-46.

Kazanowski paces victory

PITTSBURGH (CP) — The Canadian national junior basketball team, paced by Gerald Kazanowski of Nanaimo, defeated the Pittsburgh AAU all-stars 106-105 in double-overtime on Sunday.

Bob Fitzgerald of Brantford, Ont., forced the game into the second overtime period when he tied the score at 101-101 with a basket in the final seconds of the first overtime session. The score was 91-91 after regulation time.

The Canadian team is preparing for the world junior championships in Sao Paulo, Brazil, August 15-25.

Davies hurdles champ at Canadian track meet

SHERBROOKE, Que. (CP) — Two national records were set as the Canadian senior track and field championships ended Sunday and one of the new marks belonged to the youngest competitor entered in the meet.

Helene Daviau, 15, of Toronto, who resembles a doll and yet is still old enough to play with them, set a Canadian record in the five-kilometre walk when she completed the distance in 26:02.5, bettering the old mark of 26:33.7.

The other record was also of the walking variety as Marcel Jobin of Shawinigan, Que., walked 20 kilometres in 89:11,8, topping his own previous Canadian record of 1:30:00.6.

But the record breakers by no means stole the show. Much of it was grabbed by 21-year old Jill Ross of London, Ont.

Ross took golds in the pentathalon, the women's long jump and the 4x400 metre relay. She won a silver in the 4x100 metre relay.

Wendy Davies of Victoria was delighted to win the 400-metre hurdles but upset there is no such event for women in either the Pan-American games or the Olympic games.

"I guess it's male thinking that a woman can't do anything that tough," she said with a smile.

Davies' time of 59.92 seconds is a B.C. record and qualifies her for the World Cup trials later this month.

Alan Godfrey, 20, of Calgary won the men's 800-metre race in 1:49.0.

On Saturday, the 22-year-old Craig brothers from Toronto, John and Paul, who are identical twins, crossed the finish line in the 1,500-metre event together and it was hard to tell them apart.

John won the event in 3:36.6.

Laurie Kern of Vancouver won the javelin with a throw of 49.90 metres.

Other gold medals went to Joanne Calverley of Vancouver in the discus with a toss of 43.70 metres while the men's triple jump went to Ossie Sargent of the University of Toronto.

Legion lads know task

Esquimalt Legion has been forced into a must-win situation in the Western Canada Junior "A" Men's Lacrosse League.

Coquitlam Adanacs did the deed Saturday night with an upset 13-9 victory over Richmond Roadrunners and it is Coquitlam Adanacs who will be at Esquimalt Sports Centre Tuesday night to see if they can pressure the Legion into faltering.

The situation is this:

The last-place Adanacs now trail fourth-place Legion by only one point and with a victory here Tuesday will take over that final playoff spot. Similarly, Legion, with a victory, can eliminate the Adanacs and doom them to a second straight, last-place finish.

A Legion defeat would mark the first time that a Victoria-area team has failed to make the playoffs since entering the league in 1972.

On Sunday night Burnaby Cablevision stopped Richmond Roadrunners 14-7 to end its season in first place — at least for now.

Burnaby has 30 points, two ahead of New Westminster, but the Junior Salmonbellies have two games in hand. If they win both, they vault into first, but if they only win one, Burnaby will be first, based on a better goals for-and-against record.

Dan McLenaghen led Burnaby with three goals, while John Purdon, Paulo Berunoro and Lloyd Symons added two each.

Mussels charge late as Moretti holds fort

WALLA WALLA, Wash. — Victoria Mussels came on strong in the last three innings to defeat Walla Walla Padres 10-5 in Northwest League baseball action Sunday.

On Saturday, Padres topped Mussels, 10-6.

Roy Moretti came on in relief during the seventh inning Sunday and struck out five batters to earn the pitching victory.

Jimmy Burton drove in three runs with a homer and a sacrifice fly, while Doug Morganti drove in the winning run.

Burton connected for a two-run homer in the fifth inning and tied the game at 4-4 in the seventh with a sacrifice fly.

Morganti put the Mussels ahead for good in the eighth with his second double as Victoria scored six runs in the final two innings.

Rod Murphy had a triple and two singles to drive in two runs and score twice. Catcher Gary Ledbetter was two-for-four, scored once and drove in two runs.

Pete Rabassa drove in another two runs with a triple.

VANCOUVER — Jim Cunningham of Victoria, riding Eveda Taffaur, won the national Arabian trail horse championship in the Canadian Arabian horse show at the Agradome, Saturday.

Rocks shoot tonight at league-title target

Defending-champion Victoria Shamrocks move into Coquitlam tonight for a game that could decide the Western Lacrosse Association championship.

Shamrocks, who lead New Westminster Salmonbellies by three points and Coquitlam Adanacs by five, need only a victory in either of their last two games to cinch first place, the league title and home-floor advantage for the playoffs.

Victoria's other game is against Nanaimo Timbermen at Memorial Arena, Wednesday.

Coquitlam also has a shot at first place. Including tonight's game against the Rocks, they are home to New Westminster Salmonbellies Wednesday and have a replay of a protested game against Vancouver Burrards still to be determined.

Salmonbellies, also with a first-place chance, have two games to play. They are at Vancouver, Tuesday, and Coquitlam, Wednesday.

First-place team meets third-place team and second-place club meets fourth-place finisher in the best-of-seven semi-finals.

Nanaimo was eliminated from the playoff scene Saturday in a 23-10 loss to Coquitlam at Nanaimo.

The T-Men are four points behind Burrards and have only the game here remaining.

Goaltender Greg Thomas of Coquitlam made 50 saves and scored a goal for the Adanacs.

Thomas got his goal at 19:41 when Nanaimo pulled its goaltender.

Fred Klomp scored four goals for the Adanacs while Jim Aitchison, Dan Wilson and Ray Mattinson got three each. Mark Tuura and Ray Durante each notched a pair

Doug Angrove and Charn Dhillon each scored three for the losers. Brian Evans and Ron MacNeil got two. Nanaimo goaltenders Mac Maude and Earl Nicholson combined to make 45 saves.

(Shamrocks are scheduled on TV against New Westminster tonight at 9 p.m. on Channel 10. Game was played July 12. There is rerun Sunday, Aug. 5, at 12:30 p.m.).

Next game: Tonight — Victoria at Coquitlam.

One hit is enough for Triangle victory

PRINCE GEORGE — Vancouver Island teams won and lost in the British Columbia Little League baseball championship tournament here Sunday, but both remain alive in the championship picture.

The same can't be said, however, for last year's Canadian-champion Whalley squad. Whalley has been ousted.

Victoria Triangle got only one hit from Gurmit Sandu of Victoria Drive, Vancouver, but that proved to be enough as Triangle defeated Victoria Drive 2-1 in an extra-inning game.

It was the second triumph for Triangle which nipped Prince George 3-2 on Saturday.

Darren Murdoch pitched the win for Triangle Sunday and Scott Smith got the decision Saturday.

Triangle got its only hit by Scott Coulter in the fourth and it led to the first run.

Mike Croonan walked, Dan Ruttan was safe on a fielder's choice, Coulter singled, Murray Bailey walked and Ruttan scored on a passed ball.

In the seventh, Bill Gregoire scored the winner on an overthrow to third base.

Murdoch allowed six hits, walked two and struck out eight.

Victoria scored all its runs Saturday in the first inning on two walks, a single by Vince Smythe, a fielder's choice and a sacrifice fly by Ruttan. Smith struck out seven while yielding seven hits.

Ladysmith, after winning its opening game Saturday 8-3 over Dawson Creek, went down to defeat Sunday and dropped into the losers' side of the nine-team, double-loss-elimination tourney.

Vancouver Dunbar scored six runs in the fifth frame to erase a 10-6 deficit and went on to a 15-13 victory.

Dunbar blasted 16 hits against losing-pitcher Doug Doherty and reliever Tony Willis, while Ladysmith connected for 12 off Dunbar pitcher Darryl Wallin.

Jaycee-Rotary of North Vancouver scored once in the bottom of the seventh inning to hand Whalley its second defeat, 7-6.

Whalley lost a 6-2 decision Saturday to Trail.

Dawson Creek joined Whalley on the sidelines, after losing 14-1 to Freeman Park of Prince George.

Triangle plays Trail today.

Kennedy leads A's to boxla final

Victoria Athletics advanced to the playoff final of the Vancouver Island Senior "B" Lacrosse League by downing Saanich Metro Honda 19-10 Sunday at Pearkes Arena.

Athletics won the best-of-three semi-final series in straight games.

In the other semi-final, G&W Landscaping won its first game of the season and squared the series by edging Esquimalt Universal Sheet Meta, 9-8. A date and place for the deciding game hasn't been set but the best-of-three final is scheduled to start next Monday at Pearkes.

Kevin Kennedy led Athletics with three goals and six assists. Andy Reid added three goals and double tallies were provided by Bill Marechek, Robbie Clifford and Laurie Smith. Pete McCreesh and Tom Lothian each scored twice for Saanich.

Roy Sinden, Mike Beaulac and Rod Hamilton connected for double tallies to lead the Landscaper victory while Mark Bowles scored three and Cleve Dheensaw added two to top Esquimalt.

Carnarvon wins zone Pony title

WEST VANCOUVER — Carnarvon captured the zone three Pony League baseball championship here Sunday.

The Greater Victoria champion, which capped an unbeaten march by defeating Capilano 4-3 in the final, now advances to the eight-team British Columbia championship tournament, starting Thursday in Castlegar.

Carnarvon had edged West Vancouver 2-1 Saturday to gain the final while Capilano advanced through the losers' bracket by eliminating the West Van squad, 9-3.

Danny MacDonnell picked up the final-game victory in relief by striking out the last batter in the top half of the seventh inning.

The winning run was scored in the seventh by pinch-hitter Mike Shannon, who singled with one out, advanced to second on a sacrifice by Anthony Bertoia and raced home on a single by Peter Gubbels.

Carnarvon came from behind to tie the score in the sixth inning by counting two runs on a throwing error.

On Saturday, Jamie McIntosh pitched a one-hitter to pace the Carnarvon victory.

Optimists fall in 10th inning

NANAIMO — Trail scored four runs in the top of the 10th inning to defeat Saanich Evening Optimists 7-3 during play Sunday in the British Columbia Babe Ruth (14-15 years) baseball championship tournament.

The loss dropped Saanich into the losers' bracket of the double-loss-elimination tourney. The Victoria champions face Nanaimo at 6 tonight.

Derrick Gelaude had three hits in four trips to the plate and Garth Downer went three-for-five to lead Saanich batters. Ken Godfrey had two singles and two runs-batted-in for Trail.

Trail exploded for the four runs in the 10th by combining three of their five hits with a hit batsman, a walk and a sacrifice.

On Saturday, John Turcotte slammed four hits, scored the tying and winning runs and earned the pitching victory in relief while leading Saanich to a 7-6 decision over Prince George.

Saanich 001 001 100 0—3 10 1

Cup triumph first for Gerry

Gerry Vantreight burned up his home track with a solid driving performance Saturday to collect his first victory in three years of Canadian-American Modified Racing Association competition.

Vantreight won the 16th annual Strawberry Cup race before approximately 2,100 fans at Western Speedway.

The 50-lap main event was halted on the 14th circuit by a fire and Vantreight was fourth at the re-start. He moved up behind defending champion Doug Larsen of Quesnel and took the lead in the 21st lap.

Vantreight then managed to expand his lead until the 16th lap when Rebel Jackson of Seattle spun out and a yellow caution flag went out. Vantreight had to battle Larsen for two laps before the Quesnel driver spun out and then held off Pat Jessmore of Winthrop, Wash., until the final turn. Jessmore then spun out and allowed Barry Chamberlain of Vancouver and Jackson to finish second and third, respectively.

It was the eighth time a Victoria driver has won the race. Roy Smith collected the laurels four times and Al Smith has won three times.

Jones-Regazzoni one-two for victory in German Prix

HOCKENHEIM, West Germany (AP) — Teammates Alan Jones of Australia and Clay Regazzoni of Switzerland claimed the top spots in the 41st German Grand Prix, establishing their Saudi Arabian-backed team as the solid favorite in the final half of the Formula I auto-racing season.

Starting from the No. 2 position, Jones took the lead at the opening flag Sunday and survived late engine and tire problems for first place in 1 hour, 24 minutes and 48.83 seconds over 45 laps at the 4.2-mile (7.8-kilometre) Hockenheim track.

Regazzoni, in second for most of the race, piloted his green and white racer over the finish line 2.9 seconds later.

The impressive victory was the second straight for the Saudia-Williams team following Regazzoni's triumph earlier this month in the British Grand Prix at Silverstone, England. Both wins showed the Ford F-1 car is well-suited for high-speed tracks.

Jean Laffite of France finished third — 18.38 seconds off the pace — in his Ligier-Ford, followed by championship point leader Jody Scheckter of South Africa in a Ferrari and John Watson of Northern Ireland in a McLaren Ford.

Geoffrey Lees of England, a last-minute substitute for ailing Jean-Pierre Jarrier, placed seventh in a Tyrrell-Ford in his first Formula 1 outing, just ahead of Gilles Villeneuve of Berthierville, Que., in the other Ferrari and out of the points.

American Mario Andretti, defending German and world champion, left the race on the 17th lap with mechanical trouble. His Lotus teammate, Carlos Reutemann, wrecked his spare car on the second lap.

The veteran Swiss driver closed what had been a huge gap on the last lap when a leaking tire forced Jones to slow down. The Australian set a track record of 1 minute, 51.97 seconds on lap 15, shaving by .02 seconds the previous mark set last year by the late Ronnie Peterson.

Best missing for fourth time

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — George Best of Fort Lauderdale Strikers is missing again and has been indefinitely suspended.

The star forward missed the Strikers' flight back from California Thursday and didn't show up for Saturday night's game against San Diego Earthquakes. Indefinite suspension means the Strikers will no longer pay Best's salary.

It was the fourth time this year the former British soccer star had gone AWOL.

Elks capture playoff crown

Elks-Athletics dropped defending-champion Seaboard Construction 4-0 in the final game of an uncompleted double-round-robin playoff Sunday to capture the Greater Victoria senior "B" men's softball championship at Central Park.

Elks-Athletics finished with three straight victories while Tally-Ho was 1-2 and Seaboard, 1-3. Thus the last scheduled contest, between Tally-Ho and Elks-Athletics, was not required.

Ray Beveridge pitched the last victory for Elks-A's, limiting Seaboard to three hits.

In the senior "C" playoffs, K&R Sooke collected the crown with a 5-1 win over Juan de Fuca Builders on Sunday after going through the double-loss-elimination tourney in unbeaten fashion.

Designated-hitter Ernie Holness drove in two runs for Sooke in the final game with a fifth-inning double and Norm Goudie bashed a solo home run and a single in three trips to the plate to score twice and drive in one run.

In Heywood Men's League play, Capital Builders swept a doubleheader against Mears Realty 10-0 and 6-0 at Heywood Avenue Park.

Rads improve playoff chance

Capital Radiators won both ends of a doubleheader Sunday to come close to clinching third place and the last playoff berth in the Victoria Senior Amateur Baseball League.

Capitals, who slammed Quadra Warehouse 14-4 in the opening game at Lambrick Park and took the second encounter 6-4, only have to win one of their remaining three games to take the berth. Or, Cosmopolitans, now in fourth place, need only lose one of their remaining two games for Capitals to grab the spot.

Playing-manager Randy Price set the pace for Capitals with four hits in six trips to the plate during the two games, driving in five runs.

Outfielders Dwain Pack and Ron Arcuri helped out by scoring five and four runs, respectively. Pack also stole four bases while Arcuri stole three.

Lou's birdie wins playoff

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Lou Graham, at 41 one of the oldest regulars on the pro golf tour, holed a three-foot birdie putt on the first hole of a sudden death playoff to beat young Bobby Wadkins in the $250,000 Philadelphia golf tournament Sunday.

Graham and Wadkins both completed the 72-hole tournament at 273, 11 strokes under par on the Whitemarsh Valley Country Club course. Wadkins carded a one-under-par 70 and Graham a tournament record-equalling 64 in the final round.

Wadkins, who led most of Sunday and went to the 18th tee with a one-stroke advantage, fell into a tie when he bogeyed the 420-yard final hole.

On the 72nd, Wadkins hit into a pine tree on the right-hand side of the dog-leg hole. It was an unplayable lie and the 28-year-old native of Richmond, Va., had to take a drop and a penalty stroke.

Ironically, it wasn't Graham who concerned Wadkins most of the day. He was challenged by J. C. Snead, defending champion Jack Nicklaus and David Graham, the taciturn Australian.

Lou Graham came out of the pack on the final nine holes, posting four birdies and only a single bogey after making the turn.

Snead finished with a final round 69 and four-round total of 274, tying with Nicklaus and Mark Hayes. Nicklaus carded a six-under-par 65 Sunday, while Hayes took a 70.

Cranbrook man named hockey coach-of-year

Colin Patterson of Cranbrook has been selected as coach-of-the-year by the B.C. Amateur Hockey Association.

The award was made at the University of Victoria Saturday night as part of a Level IV coaching clinic.

Patterson, 36, coached B.C. to a gold medal and a 6-0 won, loss mark at the 1979 Canada Winter Games in Brandon, where B.C. outscored its opposition 52-11.

Terry Foreman of Victoria managed the B.C. club.

He is currently directing a program for beginners in Cranbrook.

Birdie-eagle finish does it for Amy

STE. JULIE, Que. (CP) — Amy Alcott, still hoarse from laryngitis and a viral infection, finished with a rush Sunday to hurl back a charge by Nancy Lopez and win the $150,000 Peter Jackson Classic on the Ladies' Professional Golf Association tour.

AMY ALCOTT
. . . spectacular finish

Locked in a four-under-par duel with the talented and successful Lopez with only three holes left to play in the 72-hole event at the Richelieu Valley Golf Club, Alcott calmly birdied the par-three, 140-yard 17th hole with a 38-footer, and then eagled the par-five 18th with another long putt that left her in hat-tossing jubilation.

She finished with a three-under-par 70 for the day and a seven-under tally of 285 for the tournament. It was her third consecutive round of 70 after an opening round of 75 on the 6,434-yard layout.

Alcott and Lopez had been playing cat-and-mouse for the leadership and the $22,500 first prize during most of the final round.

Alcott, starting the final hole with a one-shot lead, said she had been merely "trying to two-putt" on the 40-footer that brought her the eagle.

Lopez finished second with a four-under 288 total as she completed her final round with a two-under 71. Already the leading money winner on the tour with $140,500 this year, Lopez charged from well back to earn the second prize money of $14,700. She had started with a three-over-par 76 and followed with rounds of 70 and 71.

"It means a lot to win a major championship outside your country at age 23, it's really a thrill," said Alcott, who has now won seven tournaments in five years on the tour. "On the last hole I was trying to two-putt from that distance, but, damn, I made it!.

"You never win without a few breaks and I had a few today."

Silvia Bertolaccini from the Argentine finished third with a three-under 289 and earned $10,500.

American Mary Dwyer, who had started the final round six strokes under par, ran into troubles on Sunday and wound up with an 81, which left her two over par for the tournament.

Kathy Sherk of Port Colborne, Ont., who was the first-round leader with a 69, and the co-leader with Dwyer after two rounds, fired a 76 Sunday to finish at 294, one stroke over par.

Chip shot by Ball gives Whitecaps overtime win

Times News Services

Allan Ball chipped home a goal in overtime to give Vancouver Whitecaps a 3-2 victory over Portland Timbers in a North American Soccer League game at Portland Saturday.

The Whitecaps were trailing 2-1 late in regulation play when Bob Lenarduzzi scored from a scramble to tie the score.

Dale Mitchell scored both Portland goals, one in the first half and the other about 20 minutes into the second half shortly after Trevor Whymark's had scored for Vancouver.

Whitecaps, 17-9, lead the National Conference Western Division by 15 points over Los Angeles Aztecs who defeated Washington 2-1 Sunday.

In another Sunday game, Dennis Tueart scored three goals to carry New York Cosmos to a 5-0 North American Soccer League victory over San Jose Earthquakes at Giants Stadium.

The Cosmos played without Giorgio Chinaglia, the NASL's leading scorer with 25 goals, who was sitting out a one-game suspension.

Tueart's three goals raised his season's total to 14.

Francisco Marinho and Mark Liveric got the other Cosmos goals.

Ray Hudson, sidelined for five games because of a broken nose, came off the Fort Lauderdale bench Saturday to assist on the tying goal and kick home the winner in overtime as the Strikers defeated San Diego Sockers 4-3.

Edmonton's Lorenz Hilkes returned from a two-game suspension to score three consecutive second-half goals, his 11th, 12th and 13th of the season, as the Drillers defeated Memphis Rogues 4-1.

Shaw fifth in marathon selected to B.C. team

SEATTLE — Defending-champion Gunner Shaw of Victoria's Prairie Inn Hashouse Harriers placed fifth over-all and first in the over-30 age bracket in the annual Seattle marathon here Sunday.

Shaw, who has been selected to represent British Columbia at the Western Canada Games in Saskatoon, Aug. 15, wasn't really pressing for a victory but managed an excellent time of two hours, 31.48 minutes.

Keith Forman of Gig Harbor, Wash., won the event in 2:23.04 and was followed by Graham Barr of Everett in 2:24.16 and Arnie Stonkus of Seattle in 2:28.49.

Andre Gerard of Harriers and Peter Fitch of the Flying "Y" ran their first marathons and finished with times of 2:48.48 and 3:15.00, respectively. Alex Marshall of the Harriers was ninth in the over-40 age bracket with a time of 3:01.30.

WIN! $1,000.00 IN CASH PRIZES EVERY OTHER WEEK!

WIN! GRAND PRIZE TRIP FOR TWO TO HAWAII, By Wardair

The object is to match the official letters published every day with the letters in the grid which you have filled in with your name (see samples 1 and 2). When you have circled a row of letters across, vertically, or diagonally either way, send your entry in for the bi-weekly draw for cash prizes. You may submit as many entries as you wish per game, but each must be in a separate envelope.

LETTERS FOR TODAY, GAME NO. 3 ONLY

IMPORTANT!
IN ORDER TO BE ELIGIBLE, YOUR ENTRY MUST COMPLY WITH RULE NO. 2

THE NAME GAME

Rules and Procedures

Object of "The Name Game": To become eligible for prize drawings by matching letters of the alphabet, published in the Victoria Times and The Daily Colonist, with the letters in your name. Each game starts with a Saturday Times and ends in the Sunday Colonist two weeks later. The official entry form will be published every day. All members of a family may play. There is no age limit. You may enter more than once but only one entry per envelope may be submitted. As each game ends, you are invited to play the next game.

1. Using the official entry form or a reasonably hand-drawn facsimile (no mechanically reproduced forms accepted), start at the upper left hand corner and print your name continuously, one letter in each square, until all the squares are filled in. (For example, if your name is John Anderson, Sample 1 shows how to fill out your entry form.) Do not include punctuation.
Use your legal name, in a form which can be verified on your driver's licence, social security card or other official identification. You may use various forms of your first name (e.g. John, Jonathan or John S.), as long as your identity can be verified. No nicknames, please.
2. Letters for the Name Game will be published as follows: 4 letters Saturday Times and Sunday Colonist and 3 letters daily. When an official letter matches one in your diagram, circle it on your entry. That letter may appear in more than one square on your diagram, but you may circle only one such letter (of your choice) each time. Since individual letters are selected at random, they may appear more than once — even on the same day. You may circle one such letter as many times as that letter is published. The same letters will be published in the Victoria Times and The Daily Colonist, but may only be used once in any one entry.
3. When you match enough letters to complete one row on your diagram — horizontal, vertical or diagonal (corner to corner), as in Sample 2, you are eligible for the prize drawings for that game. Drawings for 15 prizes will be held every other week for 10 weeks. At each drawing $500 goes to the first name drawn, $100 to the next —, $50 each to the next 3, and $25 for the last 10 — (Winners must answer a time-limited skill-testing question before collecting prizes.) All names drawn will be returned to the drum for the grand prize drawing.
4. Mail your completed entry form to: The Name Game, Victoria Press, P.O. Box 1390, Victoria, B.C. V8W 3C4; postmarked no later than the Monday following the end of that game. Completed entries may also be delivered, in a sealed envelope, to Victoria Press, no later than Tuesday, the following day. The game number (such as 'Game 1', 'Game 2', etc.) must appear at the lower left-hand corner of the envelope.
5. All entries will be placed in a container and the winning entries will be drawn at random. Winners will be announced in the Colonist and Times on the Friday following the close of each game. The odds of winning will depend on the number of eligible entries received.
6. It is not necessary to buy the Times or Colonist to participate. Copies of the newspaper may be inspected free of charge at the newspaper's offices during regular business hours. Sorry, official letters will not be given over the phone.
7. Employees of the newspapers and members of their immediate families are not eligible to participate. Unclaimed or invalidly claimed prizes will be donated to a recognized charity at the close of the contest.
8. Winners agree to allow publication of their names, pictures and publicity in the Times and Colonist without additional consideration. Submission of an entry indicates acceptance of all game rules.
9. Decisions of Victoria Press judges in all matters relating to the The Name Game will be final.

Etawah Hank takes No. 1

Well, that's settled — at least for the time being.

Etawah Hank is the best pacer on the grounds at Sandown Raceway and Governors Star Boy is beatable.

Etawah Hank is a five-year old bay gelding owned by K. Dorman of Surrey and Saturday won a second straight invitational.

Trained and driven by Keith Linton, Etawah Hank defeated the best horses on the grounds in the time of 2:03 and returned $4.40, $2.50 and $2.10. It was his sixth win to go with a place in eight starts at Sandown, and a commanding performance as he made every post a winner.

Senga Mitsy closed well for the place.

Governors Star Boy is an eight-year old brown horse, owned by the Winner Stable of Vancouver, trained by W. Leung, was going for his ninth consecutive win as he has successfully moved up the claiming ladder since coming to Sandown and was also driven by Linton.

But, ironically, despite having the winningest driver on the track in the sulky for the first time, Governors Star Boy didn't make it.

He was hooking tougher in a $6,000-$7,000 claimer and, after setting most of the pace, finished fourth behind the fast-closing Irish Dawn, Flight Stream and Mss Hazel. Irish Dawn returned $38.00.

Now you can enjoy the Sebastiani family tradition.

Our Sebastiani family vineyards are the oldest in Northern California. The first grapes were planted here in 1825. Today, the third generation of Sebastianis continues our family's heritage of quality and dedication to old world wine-making skills.

My father August (like his father before him) won't have it any other way. Aware of the importance of care and time, he insists we make our wines in the unhurried, traditional way. Sebastiani wines are softened and mellowed in redwood casks, then aged to the peak of maturity in the cool, even temperatures of our limestone cellars. We know that the degree of maturity and the method by which it is reached makes the difference between good wine and great wine: over the years, many of our wines have won gold and silver medals in national and international competitions.

Sebastiani Mountain Burgundy and Sebastiani Mountain Chablis are two wines my father is especially proud of. He calls them the "Sebastiani family's contribution to fine dining, in the style of the French country wines." People seem to agree because they're our two most popular wines.

May we share the Sebastiani family tradition of premium quality and excellent value with you? Look for Sebastiani Mountain Chablis and Sebastiani Mountain Burgundy. We introduce them with pride and confidence, and we think you'll enjoy them.

Sub-rosa trick on U.S. Navy

BANGOR, Wash. (AP) — A yellow submarine which the U.S. Navy uses as a torpedo target has been given an additional decoration.

The navy says it doesn't know how it got there but the Canadian navy does.

The vessel, which is based at the Trident submarine base in Bangor, now sports a big, red Canadian maple leaf on its side.

"I'm not sure how the maple leaf got there," said Capt. John Fletcher, commanding officer of the Keyport Naval Undersea Warfare Engineering Station.

Fletcher said U.S. torpedo-retriever boats fly both American and Canadian flags when they operate with the Canadian navy.

Tubers make it wild and wet

The name of the game in the Great Inner Tube Race was to reach the finish line — dry, if possible.

All 360 contestants finally made it but no one was dry. Some had been in the water most of the way, either by riding low or falling in.

The event drew a large, happy crowd of paddlers and spectators in sunny weather. Unlike most events, this time the contestants paid for the right to perform, with all net proceeds going to local sports.

The parade was also well-received and the youngsters were particulary eager to meet Victoria's version of The Chicken.

And, wonder of wonders, despite a record parade entry of about 80 floats and decorated cars, it got under way promptly on schedule at 12:30 p.m.

After the races, trophy presentations were also on schedule at 3:15 p.m. but then nobody wanted to go home.

So the stage show carried on and Victoria's largest picnic continued until well after 4 p.m.

Picket lines disappear, Harmac mill reopens

NANAIMO (CP) — Members of the Pulp, Paper and Woodworkers of Canada are back at work at MacMillan Bloedel's Harmac mill here following company agreement to review a first aid program.

The 1,350 militant members of Local 8 of the union voted to go back to work Friday. It was workers at the Harmac mill which had caused havoc in the forest industry earlier this month by setting up picket lines at company operations where they did not represent employees.

Local president Stan Shewaga said even though the men had returned to work, it did not mean an agreement had been reached with the company. Negotiations are continuing, he added.

The company promised to review first aid requirements at the mill within 90 days.

Time runs out on B.C. - N.S. steel deal

HALIFAX (CP) — It is time for Sydney Steel Corp. to move to finalize its proposed deal with Tree Island Steel Co. of Richmond, B.C. if it wants the deal to go through, Tree Island president A.J. Sacks said Sunday.

In a telephone interview from the west coast, Sacks said Tree Island is worried about "leaving ourselves open to unforeseen change and circumstances" in the steps leading to clinching the deal between the two steel companies.

Tree Island has been negotiating for a 10-year, $300-million contract for Sysco to supply steel billets to the $40 million rod mill Tree Island wants to build in Richmond.

An original finalization date of Dec. 31, 1978 was extended at Sysco's request.

The British Columbia company has said the rod mill would be most economical if a deal can be worked to buy Sysco billets, but money for refinancing Sysco debts is needed before the contract can be filled.

Dr. Tom McKeough, chairman of Sysco, said Sunday the deal is almost finalized and he expects word later this summer whether the federal government will provide some $300 million Sysco needs to refinance its debt. The debt refinancing is part of an aid package considered necessary to enable Sysco to modernize its aging plant so it could produce the billets for Tree Island.

McKeough said he and Premier John Buchanan plan to meet with Regional Economic Expansion Minister Elmer MacKay within 10 days to discuss the situation at the Sydney plant.

Sacks said Sysco had been offered $50 million in April by the former Liberal federal government.

"They were given part of the loaf of bread but they want the whole loaf."

Cosmonauts experiment

MOSCOW (Reuter) — Cosmonauts aboard the Soviet space laboratory Salyut-6 are experimenting to find out why tulips will not flower in orbit, the official Soviet news agency Tass said. Tulip shoots aboard the spacecraft never grew into more than buds and scientists want to know if weightlessness was the cause.

Meanwhile, at Whistler

WHISTLER (CP) — While workers cut ski trails on Blackcomb Mountain and finish off parking garages in the new town centre, politicians in Victoria are in an uproar about the way the massive ski development is being handled.

To many in this resort municipality about 120 kilometres north of Vancouver, the debate in the British Columbia legislature is a tempest in a teapot.

Members of the opposition New Democratic Party have charged that goings-on at Whistler are as sleazy as deals that have made speculators rich and left the province with scarred mountains and botched ski developments in the past.

But planners of the Whistler expansion believe the project will be a success, giving the province a year-round resort with a two-mountain ski complex capable of eventually handling between 12,000 and 20,000 skiers a day.

Al Raine, the province's ski development co-ordinator, former national ski team coach and long-time Whistler booster, said building permits worth $35 million have already been issued this year. Investment could top $250 million within 10 years, he said.

Work got under way this summer on Blackcomb, just north of Whistler where Garibaldi Lifts of Vancouver has run a ski operation since the early 1960s.

Several new hotels are being built in the area, and officials hope to have enough to attract enough tourists when Blackcomb opens to skiers in December, 1980.

Whistler, with unstable coastal weather conditions and a hodge-podge of tourist facilities in the past, has catered mainly to day skiers from Vancouver and missed out on the tourists on week-long packages that turn profits at ski areas.

So the government introduced legislation that would set up a promotional resort association run by 12 developers now in the town centre. Assessments would be levied on tourist operators and voting would be weighted on the basis of size of investment.

The NDP, which originally got the ball rolling in the Whistler development, has charged that payoffs, favoritism and patronage are behind the legislation.

"I'm flabbergasted," said Whistler Mayor Pat Carleton.

Cat starts argument

VANCOUVER (CP) — A man armed with a rifle held police at bay for almost three hours after an argument with neighbors about what to feed a cat. After speaking with a police officer, the man eventually surrendered.

Joe gets royal treatment as talks continue today

YAOUNDE, Cameroon (UPC) — Clapping and cheering Cameroonians jostled and shoved to touch the hand of Joe Clark for the second straight day Sunday when the prime minister attended morning mass with former Archbishop of Montreal Cardinal Paul-Emile Leger and later visited the railside village of Ngoumou.

Over 2,000 congregants attended the morning church service conducted by Archbishop of Cameroon Monsignor Jean Zoa in the presence of the 75-year-old brother of former Governor-General Jules Leger, beneath pointed African arches and stained glass windows of Yaounde Cathedral.

Clark, seated by his wife Maureen McTeer to the right of the altar, watched a choir in red robes and white turbans wave synchronized rhythms with feathery white pompoms and sing to the music of a half-dozen xylophones punctuating, the music occasionally with siren-like wails.

The archbishop told the church-goers Canadian missionaries in Cameroon date back to a time 50 years ago when they had to walk through the forest to do their work. About 35 to 40 per cent of the densely-wooded nation's people are Christians, the remainder are Animists or Moslems.

But the highlight of Canadian missionary work in Cameroon, Monsignor Zoa said, has been the work of Cardinal Leger, who 12 years ago founded a mission for crippled children at Yaounde which will be turned over to the government at the end of the year.

"We feel very sad that (the cardinal) must go," the French-speaking archibishop said. "He is in the heart of all Cameroonians and he has been a great help to the handicaped."

An excited crowd waiting outside pressed eagerly to reach Clark when he emerged to shake hands. A Canadian embassy aide who began distributing small maple leaf pins outside the cathedral was so badly mobbed she had to be rescued by police.

Clark's afternoon visit to Ngoumou was a scaled-down repetition of the frenzied greeting given the prime minister on his arrival in Yaounde Saturday.

The main thing on Clark's itinerary today is a meeting with Cameroon President Ahmadou Ahidjo, private talks that will last for about two hours. There will then be a luncheon with Prime Minister Paul Biya host. Following luncheon, Clark will go back into meetings dealing with questions of North-South international relations and Canadian aid to Cameroon.

Other members of the Canadian delegation, including External Affairs Minister Flora MacDonald, will be taking part.

The meeting will be followed by a news conference.

Fishboat sinks

Four people were rescued unharmed today after their 15-foot fishing vessel, the Silver Horde, took on water and sank on the west side of Langara Island in the northwest corner of the Queen Charlotte Islands.

A Pacific Rescue Co-ordination Centre spokesman said the fisheries vessel Pillar Rock reported about 4:15 a.m. the Silver Horde had sunk and the four aboard had taken to a skiff.

The Pillar Rock was about six miles from the scene at the time.

The fishing vessel Verena picked up the survivors near Lacy Rock. The Pillar Rock later took them aboard and transported them to Masset.

The spokesman said the sinking was due to loose packing around the shaft that resulted in too much water coming aboard for the vessel's pump to handle.

Small, brown paper bags hold New Yorkers in palm

By JOHN RUSSELL

NEW YORK (NYT) — New Yorkers are heavy on coffee. They like the real thing; they like the imitation thing; they like the thing that dare not tell its name.

They like it before meals and during meals and after meals. Sipping and slurping, they lay waste their days. Not even in Cairo or Damascus can there be a greater consumption per head of the concoction that came to western Europe early in the 17th century and has been a favorite with everyone everywhere ever since.

Great cities have their own habits in this matter. Parisian tradition (now not always honored) demands that a cup of coffee come with a table and a chair, a view of the street and the attentions of a waiter in formal black with a starched white apron.

In Rome or Milan a cup of coffee is a matter of a momentary hiss, a teaspoonful of superstrong black liquid and the proximity of either a toasted ham and cheese sandwich or a round of delicious, but lethal, candies. In the Near East a small boy comes running through the streets on demand, with a brass tray, a copper pot that has no lid, a cup and saucer, a spoon and a chaser of water.

None of these is New York style. New Yorkers tend to get their coffee on the run in a small, brown paper bag. Bag in hand, they jump the lights. Bag in hand, they jump the elevator. Bag in hand, they tear through the open-plan office. Bag in hand, they sit panting at their desks until they and the coffee cool off. All this amazes the foreign visitor, but it is very much in the tone of the town. Why shouldn't coffee get up and go, like everything else?

One result of this is that although New Yorkers are very heavy on coffee itself, they are very light indeed on what often goes with it: the coffeehouse. The current Yellow Pages cannot, for instance, list even one genuine coffeehouse. It has given up the search. Even that hybrid the coffee shop is not listed individually. "For Coffee Shops, see Restaurants," the book says.

But a coffeehouse is not a coffee shop, and even less is it a restaurant. A coffeehouse is a place in which life is distilled, the way coffee is distilled. Nobody is ever in a hurry in a coffeehouse: neither the customers nor the staff, nor the owner. Haste is menial, they think. Life should be savored as real coffee is savored. Leisure is fundamental to life, and the coffeehouse is one of its sanctuaries.

That is the general idea, and it is at least 300 years old. People remember their first cup of coffee all their lives, and they remember who brought it to them. People in the 1660s believed that coffee would save them from catching the plague. Coffee set the basic temper of life. It worked on the brain, as much as on the pulse, and then, as now, it kept the conversation moving.

In 1730, there were 30 coffeehouses in Vienna. Such was the strength and spontaneity of public demand that they were identical in their basic style. They offered tea, coffee and chocolate; but the Viennese have never cared much for tea, and chocolate cost two or three times more than coffee.

It should be remembered that Vienna at this time considered itself, with some reason, to be the centre of the civilized world. It had as many clever people and as many gifted linguists to the square mile as any city in the world. The coffeehouse that kept those people supplied with everything that they wanted to read had to subscribe to newspapers and magazines from Edinburgh, London, Paris, Amsterdam, Madrid, Rome, Berlin, Moscow, St. Petersburg, Athens, Venice, Constantinople. . .

What is remarkable about Vienna, however, is the extent to which coffeehouse life is still as it was in the age of Haydn and Schubert and Beethoven. What Schmierer's coffeehouse was in 1810, many a venerable institution is today: a place where well-kept old gentlemen sit reading a newspaper. On the table before them is a cup of coffee, and all around them is the furniture that their fathers and grandfathers knew. Novelty is abhorrent in these largely silent and quite uneconomical spaces.

As one who would like New York to be all things to all men, I sometimes grieve that we have nothing comparable to the Viennese coffeehouse. Still, every great city has its own imperious rhythms, and they cannot be set aside.

If someone from Vienna calls me up and says "Where's the coffeehouse in this town ?" I have my answer ready. "It's all around you," I say. "For the New Yorker, the entire city is one big coffeehouse. It is wherever he is. Everyone in this city is his own coffeehouse keeper. He and his coffee are one, and no one can pry them apart."

Spec set don't mind if glasses frame-up

TORONTO (CP) — It may seem like a frame-up, but eye glasses are back in style and they are so fashionable and fun people like wearing them.

It has all happened since designer names such as Dior, Givenchy, Nina Ricci, Yves Saint Laurent, Pierre Cardin, Emmanuelle Khanh, Diane Von Furstenburg and Oscar De La Renta joind the frame game in the past seven years.

Designers Rodolphe of Toronto and John Warden of Montreal got into the act two years ago, and recently cosmetics manufacturers Elizabeth Arden and Helena Rubenstein introduced frames with matching eye and face make-up.

To some status-conscious eyeglass wearers, the signature is as important as the look of the frame. A wardrobe of frames has become de rigeur in the spec set.

And there's no end to the amount they will pay for them.

WARDROBE of frames has become de 'riguer even if they cost a small fortune.

"The most expensive glasses that I know of were sold last fall at Eaton's downtown for $1,700," says fashion consultant Robert Keller, who worked in the store's optical department until he joined Imperial Optical last November.

"They had 18-carat gold frames studded with 12 diamonds in a French setting and were bought by an accountant's wife."

"She wasn't only getting a status symbol but a good investment too, because glasses are tax deductable."

One of the freshest trends is sparkle specs with a look reminiscent of the 50's when bejewelled cat-eye frames were the rule rather than the fashionable exception.

"They haven't hit Canada yet," says Keller, "but clients are buying frames in Europe and having lenses put in when they get home.

"But you'll find them here in the spring."

SPARKLE SPECS are real dazzlers for big nights on the town. Scalloped frames are studded with rhinestones and priced at $200.

Dear Abby

by Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Last weekend our children, two boys, 15 and 16, went to visit their grandparents. I have a Saturday job, but decided to surprise my husband, so I worked only half a day and hurried home. I was the one who was surprised when I went into my bedroom and found Jim in bed with his best friend — a man!

I couldn't believe my eyes. His friend (I'll call him Joe) left immediately and Jim and I had a long talk. He said he had always been gay, and married me (at 19) because he thought I could "cure" him, but he never stopped seeing men. Jim said he loves me but not as deeply as he loves Joe.

I never suspected a thing, Abby. We always had terrific sex, but I don't think I could ever sleep with him again. He's a loving husband and a great father and we had 18 wonderful years. I don't hate him. I'm in total shock. What should I do? And what should I tell our sons? —

DESPERATE WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Give Jim up graciously. He has already made a choice, either consciously or unconsciously. If your husband doesn't tell his sons the truth, you tell them if they ask. No lies or coverup. Bisexuality is a fact of life that can occur in any family.

DEAR ABBY: We have two teen-age sons. My husband opened a savings account for each of them when they were very young, and each year he puts several hundred dollars into their accounts, plus the money they receive for birthdays, Christmas, etc.

Our problem is trying to get the boys to earn money and save it on their own. What little they do earn they would fritter away on treats, records and foolishness if their father didn't insist that half of every dollar earned must go into the bank. This gives them very little incentive to earn money. They say, "What for? Dad will only make us put it in the bank."

What to do?

CONCERNED MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: All children live for today. The future seems unreal to them. The "I-want-it-now" attitude is the hallmark of immaturity. Train your children to save. If they resent it, so what? When they're older they'll appreciate having a nest egg instead of a goose egg.

Workaholics' excuses just a bunch of 'bunk'

Saving money is silly for seniors; aging workaholics are pathetic; enjoy NOW!

That is the gist of a letter from F. H. Murphy, of Rutland:

"I am amazed at the many older people who have to justify their existence, to themselves as well as to others, by means of work. What bunk! Work is only a means to an end, the end being the financial capability to live comfortably and do the things you prefer.

"Even during your pre-retirement years, work should not be overvalued. I knew a hard-driving businessman who said he was looking forward to his retirement. Six months into his leisure years he was found dead in a Florida motel. He had lived only his job and couldn't adjust to life without it.

"It may sound as if we are rich. Well, we are — but not in money. I have never had a savings account worthy of the name. But I have a modest income and my wife and I use it — sometimes even in advance. Why save it? The dollar I hoard today is worth 90 cents next year — 50 to 60 cents in five years.

"I don't have to justify my way of life to anyone. When I reached the stage where I could live with reasonable comfort without paid employment, I stopped working to do things I've always wanted to do. Not everything, of course. I admit to some champagne tastes which I cannot satisfy.

"However, I don't sit around crying about that; I just do the things I can manage. For my wife and me, life after retirement is just fine.

"I have views in common with Jerry Hartford of Don Mills (quoted in an earlier column). What sense is there in working without enjoying things and missing activities you have longed for — just to leave fifty, sixty or a hundred thousand for someone else to spend.

If your children have to depend on what you leave them, you are a failure. We brought up ours to be independent, to stand on their own feet; we equipped them to meet the world on better terms than we did. After that they were on their own.

"Out here we have senior citizens clubs and recreation centres all over the place, where cards, dancing, indoor bowls, outside horseshoes, etc., are on the go pretty steadily — I hear.

"Those clubs are open to anyone over fifty but my 77-year-old golfing partner hasn't availed himself of these facilities; he says he doesn't want to get mixed up with those old people! I don't either."

In 20 years, an estimated 60 million people between 55 and 74 — the young-olds — will live on this continent, said speakers at the conference entitled A New North American Phenomenon.

Proceedings of that conference now are available, $3 per copy, from Couchiching Institute on Public Affairs, Suite 208, 20 Eglinton Ave., E., Toronto, M4P 1A9.

Common ¢ents

By KATE MacQUEEN

Need a new roller pan for your paint job? Consider instead a five-gallon bucket. Most professional painters use a metal bucket for a nine-inch roller, because you get more paint onto the roller and cover a larger area with the paint. The bucket hooks nicely onto a ladder, too. Steer clear of a plastic bucket. Paint dries quickly on plastic, loosens and falls as chips into the paint.

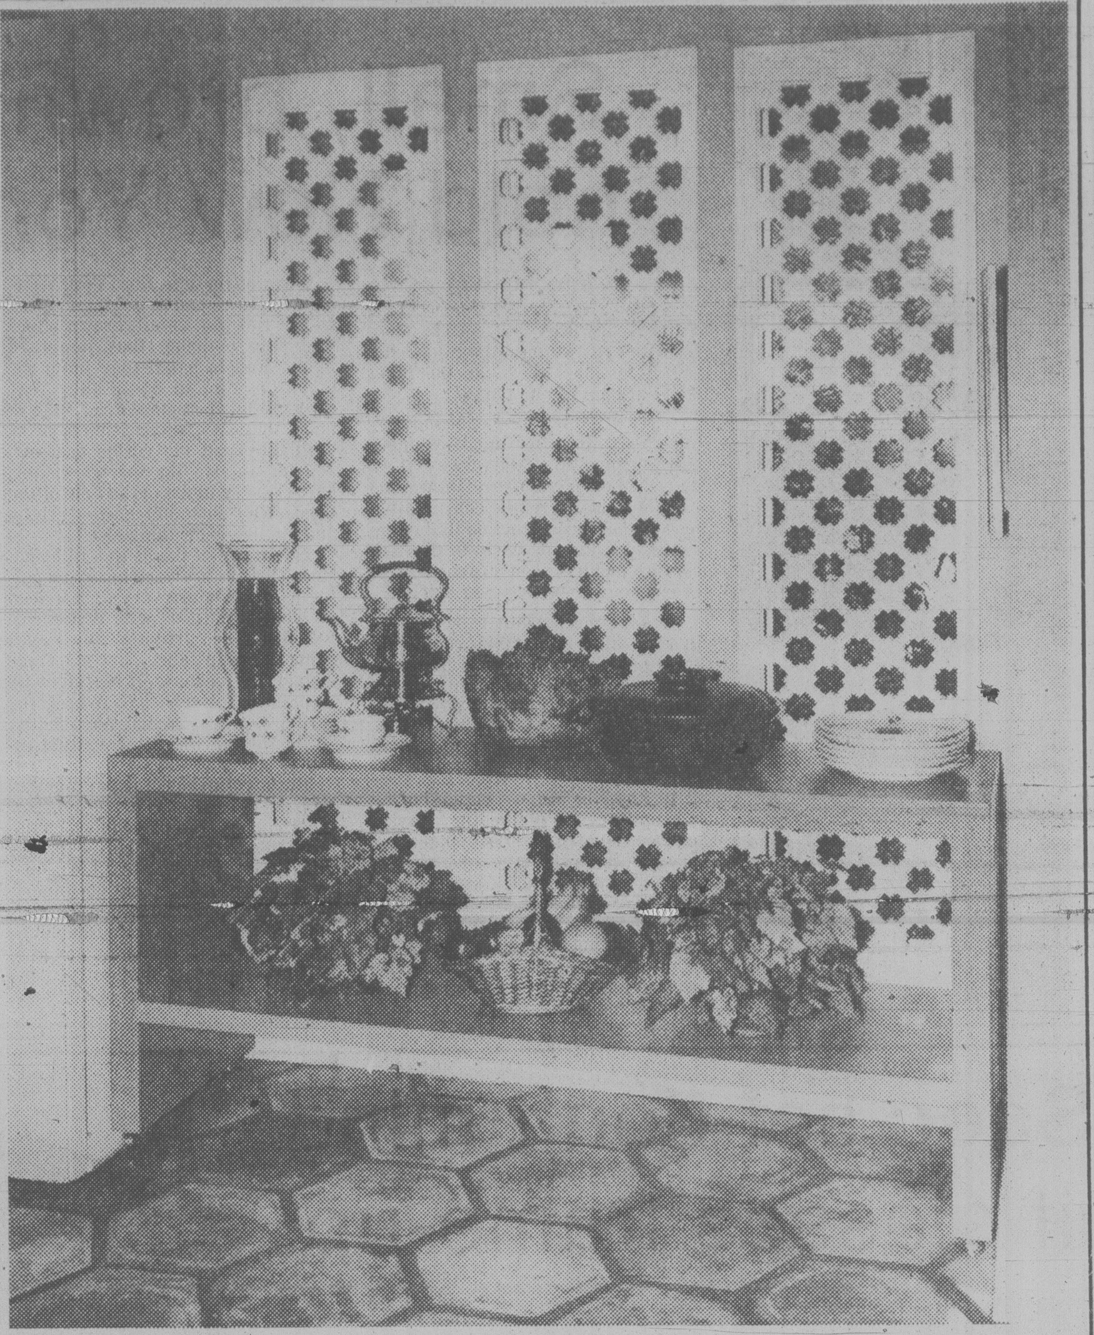
On a visit to your public library or a bookstore, glance through a few pages of Coin World Almanac or other coin-collector price list books. Some coins jingling in your pocket or piggy bank may be worth more than face value. Just remember that not all coin-buying shops pay the same for what you sell. Shop around for the best cash value.



Grillwork panels dress up the window area, eliminate need for draperies

He rolled challenge away

By PAULINE GRAVES

A challenge to every homeowner is making the most of a house, whether it be the entire house or a particularly tricky corner. Some depend upon decorators' talents, others turn their own resources to good advantage. But however they are tackled, challenges present themselves and meeting them head-on can have gratifying results.

As a case in point, we show an entry hall in a house by interior designer Allen Eisenberg, ASID. A recessed window faces the street, and this breaking into the front exterior facade looks great on the outside, but it is a different situation on the inside.

The 2-foot by 5-foot recess looked stark and empty, even with traditional fabric draperies over the windows. The space called for a furniture piece, logically a table, and a table was made, 5-feet long, 18-inches deep and 27-inches high. Instead of standing statically, the table is mobile, thanks to smooth-running, heavy duty casters.

It now functions as an adjunct of the dining room nearby. Wheeled to the kitchen, the table can be loaded with food and dishes and then moved to the dining room where it becomes a buffet server.

Between dinner parties, the table is a handsome, decorative piece, painted shiny green, its straight lines a good contrast to the carved grillwork that covers the windows behind it. And it looks as sturdy as it is, with slabs at the ends substituting for more delicate legs.

Beware unqualified hypnotists

YOUR HEALTH

by L. L. Coleman, MD

Every day, in one of our newspapers, there is a big advertisement that says hypnosis can help people stop smoking, reduce weight, cure insomnia and alleviate a lot of other troubles. Some people must be falling for this because the ad continues to appear. Don't you consider this a form of quackery? — Mr. H.E.V.

DEAR MR. V.: There is no way for me to determine how reliable are the people involved in the ad you refer to. I doubt that reputable physicians, psychiatrists and psychologists would seek to enlist clients in this way. Prestigious medical organizations would frown on such advertising, knowing well that this method of enlisting patients is fraught with potential danger.

Hypnosis today is a valid and potent form of treatment for many types of psychological problems. Highly trained specalists in medicine, in psychology and in dentistry are employing this remarkable form of therapy as an addition to, not as a replacement for, other forms of psychotherapy.

Hypnosis is recognized as a very significant and useful tool in the control of severe pain, insomnia, some forms of headache and in uncovering some basic sources of neurotic behavior. It is also being used effectively, by trained specialists, to help stop smoking and to begin a program of weight reduction. Hypnosis is a valuable technique for reducing overwhelming fears and anxieties prior to surgery. Some phobias have been successfully eradicated with hypnosis.

Freud, the father of psychoanalysis, used hypnosis extensively before his involvement with psychoanalytical techniques. Since then, the horizons of hypnosis have been enormously extended, until today it is a recognized and accredited method of psychological study and treatment.

The American Medical Association placed its stamp of approval on hypnosis as a recognized modality to be used by specifically trained specialists. It isn't likely that any of these specialists would advertise in newspapers.

The Morton Prince Clinic for Hypnotherapy and the Institute for Research in Hypnosis, has its home base in New York City. Divisions of this well-recognized organization are set up in some of the major cities in the United States. Many of their members are nationally famous for their scientific contributions to modern-day hypnosis. Dr. Milton V. Kline, the director of these centers, emphatically states, "Unfortunately, people in show business, untrained in psychological values, have made a parlor game and a stage performance out of the phenomenon of hypnosis. This can be hazardous."

Before getting involved and ensnared by tempting advertisements, you and your own doctor should check out the credentials of those who may be exploiting the vulnerability of those seeking help.

Salesmen are always complaining that they can't practice their skills with potential 504 buyers. The car sells itself. One test-drive is usually enough to convince anybody. Meanwhile, our salesmen stand by and watch the 504s do their job.

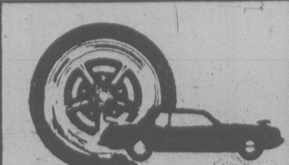
Don't rush into a Rabbit



WHEELS

by Mike Lamm

DEAR MIKE: We're in the market for a new car. We currently drive a 1972 Buick Riviera that gets terrible gas mileage. My question is, Should we get a diesel car like a diesel Rabbit or the small Oldsmobile? What's your opinion? — MOVING ON

DEAR MOVING: The diesel situation has changed abruptly in recent months, and there's no telling where it'll go in the future. Diesel fuel now costs nearly the same as leaded regular gasoline at some stations. It used to be, too, that you had to be a high-mileage driver to make a diesel car pay off. But diesels currently depreciate so little that that's not true anymore.

On the other hand, with uncertain emission standards and an uncertain fuel supply for diesels, the depreciation picture could change again. I don't know your particular situation — whether you live in an area with easy access to diesel fuel, how long you usually keep a car, how many miles per year you drive, etc.

What I'm leading up to is that buying a diesel today involves certain risks. Be sure you weigh all the pros and cons. Too many people are buying diesels, I feel, on impulse.

DEAR MIKE: Because of the fuel situation, we've retired our Jeep Wagoneer from daily use. However, we will use it in wintertime. This vehicle has 37,000 miles and the 360 V8. Question: Do we need to change oil at 6-month intervals even though the Wagoneer will be driven only a few hundred miles each winter? — RETIRING JEEP

DEAR RETIRING: Yes, you should, because short stop-and-go trips in cold weather are very hard on an engine. Raw fuel seeps into the pan, and acids tend to build up.

DEAR MIKE: Our 1974 Volkswagen bus stalls out in warm weather. It won't start again for half an hour or so. We've had the fuel pump replaced. The fuel lines and smog controls check out okay. Our servicemen doesn't believe it's vapor lock. What do you think? — STALLED AND STYMIED

DEAR STALLED: It certainly sounds like classic vapor lock to me. Another possibility could be the ignition coil. Sometimes a coil gets hot internally. It then tends to lose voltage or builds up electrical resistance.

'Countrymen,' says ad, 'Lend me your tears'

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — Wanted: weepers.

William Frey is advertising for people who will cry for him and contribute to his growing amount of data on human tears.

Frey, a biochemist, and his colleagues want to know why people cry.

"If we determine that," he said, "it may help us understand the biochemical basis of emotions, which could lead to better treatment of people with emotional instabilities."

Frey received a one-year $4,000 grant from St. Paul Ramsey's Medical Education and Research Foundation. He spent a large chunk of it recently after placing an ad in the Minnesota Daily offering $10 apiece to those who would cry for him.

So many people signed up in two days — 110 — he had to withdraw the offer.

The ad asked people to watch a sad French movie, Sundays and Cybele, scoop up their tears in a test tube he provides, and then fill out a questionnaire to determine their emotional reaction to the film.

The questionnaire was filled out twice, once to determine the volunteer's reaction at the height of his emotion and again to determine how he felt after he cried.

Frey asked his subjects to come back one week after they saw the film and answer another series of questions. He also gave them an onion test at that time to induce tears.

"No one knows much of anything about tears," Frey said.

He wants to determine whether people feel better after they cry, whether emotional tears differ from irritant-imposed tears, and whether tears shed differ according to the emotion experienced.

The study may also determine whether the contact lenses affect tears, he said.

Does a carat have a point?

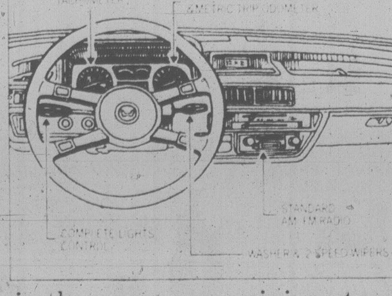
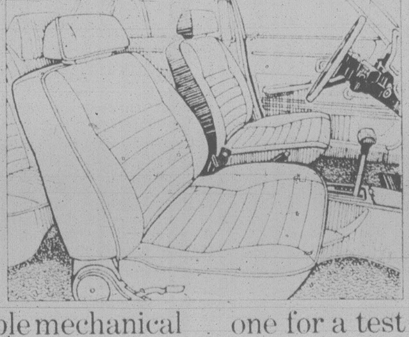
Diamonds, Main Floor
EATON'S

THE DARN NEAR PERFECT CAR.
"It's the darn near perfect car." We didn't say it, David Pearson said it. He said it to Brock Yates. In case you don't know, David Pearson is a Grand National Stock Car Racing Champion and Brock Yates is a former Editor of Car and Driver magazine, so they both know a bit about cars. And both of them have owned Honda Accord Hatchbacks.
And that isn't all they said. Brock Yates commented further: "One contemplates an Accord and thinks, why in the name of Ransom E. Olds can't all cars be as neatly engineered? Here comes a manufacturer noted for motorcycles, portable generators and outboard motors that within fewer years than you can count on your hands builds a car decades ahead of many of those built by people who've been involved with the business for half a century."



Their enthusiasm is not hard to understand. Unless, of course, you've never driven an Accord yourself. It is perhaps the best combination of luxury and performance that is available anywhere, at anywhere near its price.
An Accord's mechanical credentials are impeccable. It comes with front wheel drive, power assisted front disc brakes, rack and pinion steering, 5-speed transmission and fully independent MacPherson strut suspension. All of which help make it a joy to drive.
Small wonder that some of the world's most knowledgeable car enthusiasts own, and love to drive Honda Accords.
HAS A PERFECT PARTNER.
If any criticism of the Accord Hatchback was possible, it might have been that it was a 2-door and therefore not exactly suited to someone who might have a family. We're not sure if anyone ever made that criticism. However, if they did (and even if they didn't), we've answered it. Honda Accord Hatchback, the darn near perfect car, now has a perfect partner: the new Honda Accord 4-door sedan.


Both of the Accords share the same impeccable mechanical features. Both are exciting to drive.
But the sedan offers you extra interior room plus the convenience of 4 doors. Inside the Accord, you'll find yourself seated on fully reclining front bucket seats that are upholstered in warm, comfortable cloth. Directly in front of you, every Accord has extensive instrumentation that lets you know what's happening, when. Including lights that tell you if any of the doors are not closed, or if a brake light is burned out. And just to the right, is a standard AM/FM radio.
But the best way to discover an Accord's qualities is to go to a Honda dealer and see for yourself. Look carefully at the fit, the finish and the detailing of the car. Then take one for a test drive. Whether you're interested in the hatchback or sedan, we think you'll agree with David Pearson. Either one of them is the darn near perfect car.

Opening lead — jack of hearts.

A declarer sees all his side's resources as soon as dummy appears, but the defenders do not have that corresponding advantage. As a result, the defenders must work harder and more carefully to ascertain their respective assets and liabilities. If they cooperate well, they will practically always score all the tricks they are entitled to score.

Consider this deal where routine defense would permit declarer to make the contract — and well-coordinated defense would defeat it.

Let's say West leads a heart, won by East with the king. East must obviously shift to a diamond; the only question is, which one?

First, let's suppose East returns the three, conforming to the standard custom of leadng his fourth-best diamond. South would play the kind and West would presumably win with the ace.

Unfortunately, if this position is reached — and it is only trick two — the defense is all washed up. Whatever West returns, South makes the contract. His only losers prove to be a heart, a diamond and a club.

Now let's go back to trick two and have East return the eight of diamonds. West can easily read the eight as East's highest diamond, so — after South follows suit with the king — West plays the seven! This is because West realizes that declarer has the K-Q and that the only chance of beating the contract lies in scoring two diamond tricks later on.

In ducking the king of diamonds, West pins all his hopes on the possibility that his partner has either a club trick or a trump trick, in which case another diamond lead from East will cut declarer down to size. West must reason along these lines to have a chance to beat the contract.

Molly smiled at Tommy's question. "Would you like to figure it out?" she asked. "That's the only way you'll get it."

"Sure," the boy replied. "I'll try."

"Okay, you'd best write it down," Molly told him. "If you subtract three times the last figure from seven times the other one you'll get just half my age."

How old was she?

CITY WATCHDOG RICHARDS Report #119. Congratulations to Terry Spence for his excellent CFAX editorial regarding Oak Bay Alderman Peter Bunn's efforts and six other directors of the Royal Jubilee Hospital for deciding that board meetings will be open to the public in future. Your City's Watchdog feels that taxpayers should have the right to know how and where their tax dollars are being spent. Congratulations to Saanich Police Chief Robert Peterson who said, "There can be very little doubt our programs are producing very real benefits to our citizens in terms of their personal safety and the security of their possessions." The woman driver of Car Licence EFN 78- who drove dangerously over 3½ miles from the corner of Hillside and Government, south on Blanshard, east on Bay, over yellow lines at Cook and Johnson and parked on Dallas Road just so she could play tag with a Corvette Car Licence EEX 9-- at approximately 9 pm on Saturday, July 21, are very fortunate that the City of Victoria did not have a policeman following them. If you wish further information regarding City matters, please phone 383-6259. Your City's Watchdog, C. Joe Richards or write PO Box 154, Victoria. Postscript: Native Sons of British Columbia will be celebrating the 93rd Anniversary of the driving of the Last Spike on the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway with a return trip on the Dayliner to Nanaimo for approximately $13 which will include a Buffet Lunch. Reservations for this trip should be made earliest, phone 383-6259.

Sleep on dear
good mother,
long years

Since you left
filled with sadness and tears

Yours was a heart
and gay

Scattering sunshine
the way

You know how we love you
love you yet

Though God took you from us,
we cannot forget.

309 IN MEMORIAM

FINDLAY - In loving memory of our darling mother, Charlotte Findlay, January 14, 1979 and June Hall, July 25, 1979. (Private Cremation).
In cannot see beyond to day,
Tomorrow's hills I cannot climb.
The task to hand is mine to do -
I'll know the next in God's good time.
Lord, let me walk along with thee,
Each trusting step enough for me.
I will never leave thee, nor forsake thee.
Karl and Elsie Smith

THAME - In loving memory of Stan, beloved husband, father and grandfather who passed away July 28, 1978.
One year past from the sad day
That our loved one went away
Our broken heart's went with you
There is not a moment that we don't think of you.
The Thame Family.

THEY SHALL GROW NOT OLD AS WE WHO ARE LEFT GROW OLD, AGE SHALL NOT WEARY THEM, NOR THE YEARS CONDEMN, AT THE GOING DOWN OF THE SUN, AND IN THE MORNING, WE WILL REMEMBER THEM.

Oil companies defend profits

NEW YORK (AP) — Representatives for two major oil companies today defended the heavy second quarter profits reported by big oil companies as necessary for development of more petroleum sources.

"It doesn't do any good to be expressing outrage and talking about obscene profits," said William Tell, vice-president of Texaco Inc.

"Profits are the source of new energy supplies. We're spending our time looking for villains and scapegoats while the rest of the world has faced the problem squarely."

Tell appeared on the NBC-TV Today program with another oil executive, John Neafsy, vice-president of Sun Co.

Neafsy echoed Tell's remarks on the profits, saying Sun's 57 per cent second quarter profit was "still in a competitive league with the rest of American industry."

Tell said Texaco's 132 per cent profit was misleading because it represented a continuing recovery from a 28 per cent loss in 1978.

"We didn't get much attention at that time," he said, noting that his company skims "1.8 cents a gallon on all petroleum products sold."

Neafsy admitted the profits were "a significant increase" but said they were needed.

There's nothing "sheepish" about the nature of Icelandic woolens

The nature of these Icelandic woolens is surprising. You'd never guess that sweaters this luxurious could be water repellent and wind resistant. But they are. And not only does this resilent wool fight out cold and wetness, it keeps you incredibly warm. You'll be surprised how such a light mohair texture can provide such warmth! These pure, undyed Icelandic sweaters are a natural for any man. Well worth the price, too.

Sewage dump decision soon

Defence Minister Allan McKinnon is expected to reply within six weeks to a Capital Region District application requesting permission for septic tank trucks to use DND roads to get to the region's sewage disposal property at Macaulay Point.

Regional board chairman Murray Glazier and board directors David Hill and Howard Sturrock discussed the matter with the minister Friday.

Sewage waste from septic tanks is now dumped at the Millstream sewage lagoons but these are filling up and are expected to be of no further use within a year.

The proposal is to dump the waste at the region's pumping station at Macauley Point but access to the property is via DND roads.

Glazier said some people seem to be under the impression that CRD planned to install large facilities to accommodate the waste and trucks.

"This is not the case," he said. "Actually all we plan to do is to build a small extension, about 12 feet square, to the existing station."

Milfoil discussion slated for Friday

DUNCAN — A special information meeting on the problems of Eurasian milfoil will take place Friday at 7:30 p.m. in the Shawnigan Lake community hall.

Robert Nijman, provincial documentation and prevention co-ordinator, will speak to residents on the possible spread of the underwater plant to Vancouver Island lakes. He will present films and slides and distribute literature on the subject.

Times to appeal cartoon ruling

VANCOUVER (CP) — An appeal by the Victoria Times against a B.C. Supreme Court decision that cartoonist Bob Bierman libelled Municipal Affairs Minister Bill Vander Zalm will be heard Oct. 23.

The appeal was launched Friday at the Court of Appeal.

In the cartoon, Vander Zalm — who at the time was provincial human resources minister — was shown gleefully plucking the wings off a fly.

In the decision earlier this year, Mr. Justice Craig Munroe agreed with Vander Zalm's contention that the cartoon portrayed him as a cruel and sadistic person. The judge said Vander Zalm had performed his duties in good faith and could not be viewed as the cruel man shown in Bierman's cartoon.

But Bierman contended the cartoon was fair comment.

Munroe awarded Vander Zalm $3,500 and court costs in the legal action taken against Bierman, Times editor Barbara McLintock and former publisher Stuart Underhill.

Plant an idea in a child's mind

GARDENING

Hilda Beastall

How many of us with gardens producing food, realize there are children by the hundreds around us who are quite unaware they can do the same?

All they really need is the opportunity and the example, for many children do not even know that the food they see and eat is actually produced on plants that grow in soil as can be seen in Victoria gardens.

This summer when youngsters come around to see you or your own children, don't forget the chance to show them your vegetable patch.

Let them see at close range the tomatoes of all sizes clustered on the plants and the newly opened flowers not yet pollinated.

Show them squash plants, with summer fruits on them one- to three-inches across or in length, according to variety, and tell them these are the delicately-flavored squash for summer eating in small sizes; they can even be eaten raw.

Then tell them about the giant-sized Hubbard squash they may see for sale in slices during winter at vegetable departments and the huge, orange pumpkins which are made into lanterns for Hallowe'en.

Let them know these are all related, in the same family even as they themselves are related to cousins and aunts and uncles.

If you suspect their acquaintance with peas and beans is limited to those from cans or frozen supermarket packages, introduce these young visitors to your rows of growing pods where they may taste peas they take out of the pod themselves. Let them savor the freshness of crisp, undersized raw bean pods straight off the plants.

The flowers of these legumes will interest the youngsters who remember the rudiments of botany offered them at school. These particular plants do not depend on polination by bees, other insects, or by wind as do fruit trees, squash, tomatoes and sweet corn.

Note that bean and pea flowers are "hooded" to protect them from rain, wind and [illegible] are needed because these flowers are self-pollinating. Note also the [illegible] esting and attractive flower colors of the different kinds of beans — they may be scarlet, purple, mauve, brownish or white.

While in your vegetable garden, don't forget to show the youngsters the root vegetables.

Pull a carrot from the soil; show them a beet with the edible leaves; gently search for potatoes at the base of the dying leaves. Tell them of the seed sowing, and of the small pieces of potato from which the pounds of whole potatoes have been grown in a few weeks.

You may have lettuce of various kinds, none of them resembling the solid, whitish heads they know on their home table. You may have the brown-edged kind of leaf lettuce, the finely cut endive, or the small creamy-green individual Bibb or Buttercrunch type. And if they hate spinach, show them the crisp-leaved kinds you grow. Let them nibble a leaf to discover that even spinach has good points when you grow it yourself.

The results of your vegetable garden tours may be more lasting than you think. The child or its parents may be interested enough to make a beginning in growing a few food plants even this year.

And you may be the one to give the helping hand of encouragement and advice. Your belief in your own project of vegetable growing could well be the key to the success of more than one new gardener.

The starting cannon roars, and they're off jockeying for position in Great Inner Tube Race

Jus' rockin' an' bobbin' along Gorge

By AL FORREST
Times Staff

Bill Harnett flew in from Calgary on the weekend in time to team up with Victoria friend Gerry Vonk and win the men's championship in the Great Inner Tube Race.

They crossed the finish line in a course record 20 minutes, 15 seconds, to the cheers of more than 15,000 spectators along Gorge Road and in Kinsmen's Gorge Park.

"This was certainly worth flying out for," said Harnett, a 21-year-old electrician, formerly of Victoria.

He and Vonk had won in 1977 but last year Harnett stayed in Calgary and passed up the race.

Vonk, who failed to win a trophy last year, was delighted the championship team had been re-united.

"I told him we could win if we teamed up again," said Vonk, a 22-year-old University of Victoria student.

They edged out Brian Ellis, 27, and Neil Salmond, 23, last year's champions, in a fierce closing duel.

"It was a great finish," Ellis said. "They got off to a good start and we just couldn't catch them. Maybe next year."

Third was Mike Lawless, 18, and Bernie Lawless, 16.

The event, in perfect weather, drew 360 paddlers, about 100 more than last year. There were 212 in the men's, 81 in the women's and 64 in the mixed teams.

Women's champion for the second straight year was the "Thirties Power" team of Pat Carfra, 38, and Kathy Walls, whose age was listed as "over 30."

They had a tougher race than in 1978.

"We were second for awhile but then we finally caught up," Carfra said. "Last year I had time to wave to the crowd but this year we had to keep on paddling."

They were out to win but their main aim was to prove that life doesn't end at 30.

Their time was a fast 24 minutes, 44 seconds.

Second was the team of Janice Mason, 19, and Denise Mason, 18.

Third were Sue Okros and Marie Webb, both 17.

There was a minor upset in the mixed event, when Daniel Rigolet, 36, teamed up with Monique Grypink, 22, and won by a narrow margin over perennial champions John Clayton, 36, and Sarah Braithwaite, 19.

"In some ways I don't mind that we came second," Clayton said.

"Last year we won by a margin of five minutes. It was more competitive this year, a tremendous race."

Third was the team of Tom Hughes, 21, and Elizabeth Townshend, 20.

Winning time for Rigolet and Grypink was 23 minutes, 50 seconds.

Rigolet had been in the men's event for the past three years and had come seventh each time. Teaming up with Grypink, who was racing for the first time, proved to be an excellent idea, he said.

It had all started at noon with contestants signing in at the official table and then lining up for the pre-race parade.

Best parade entry was a Rock and Row float, consisting of a jiving cave made of small trees and a racing raft equipped with oars. It made effective use of the race theme, the 1950s rock and roll era.

When the parade started, some members on the float began rocking to recorded music while the others began rowing.

The inspired effort was the work of many hands, employees of Olympic Window Cleaners. They included Bill Stoyles, Rory Barclay, Mike Parfett, Joanne Ellis, Darlene Carlton, and race trophy winners Ellis and Salmond.

The float had sponsors aplenty as well. Besides Olympic, the entry was submitted by Garbo's Costumes and United Commercial Travellers 434.

Brownie's Fried Chicken was the parade trophy for a mixed entry and Super Tuber Tellers won the ladies parade trophy.

The parade got off promptly at 12:30 p.m. and was greeted by an enthusiastic crowd as it passed along Gorge Road to the starting point, Craigflower Bridge.

Back at the finish line, a grand picnic was under way with thousands enjoying hot dogs, hamburgers and cold drinks at half price, courtesy of the Kinsmen.

A cannon started the women's race at 1:34 p.m., followed closely by the mixed event at 1:36 p.m.

Then the traffic jam of 212 male entries were lined up for the third race, which started at 1:45 p.m.

The women's pair of Carfra and Walls were the first to reach the finish line, just before 2 p.m. It was 50 minutes later before the last tube hit the shore.

Awards were presented at 3:15 p.m. but thousands stayed on to listen to local bands and continue the picnic.

The event was organized by Hampton Park Hustlers.

Spokesman Bob Painton made a brief speech paying tribute to the Victoria Times for sponsoring the event and to local radio stations, the Kinsmen, police, and firemen and a number of other organizations and businesses who helped out.

"The weather was perfect," he said.

And the Hustlers plan to do it again next year.

Country cousins turning to crime

VANCOUVER (CP) — Fifteen tons of corn disappear from the middle of a field.

Five tons of grapes are stolen with only the mangled vines left behind. Cattle is rustled. Hay disappears.

And a Richmond farmer says he lost $10,000 worth of strawberries by theft in one year alone.

A soaring crime rate in rural British Columbia during the last few years has prompted police to attempt to duplicate urban crime prevention programs with a country theme.

"The name of the game is participation," said RCMP S. Sgt. Don Rowett. "There are a lot more ranchers than there are policemen."

A program started about three years ago in the Ashcroft area has residents participating in a range patrol similar to the neighborhood watch programs implemented in urban areas.

"There have been incidents where people have been caught in the act," said Constable Neil Taylor of Ashcroft. "It shows that the range patrol is effective."

Rowett said a similar program has been operating in the Pemberton area about 120 kilometres north of Vancouver for 1½ years to check back roads and isolated areas for abandoned stolen cars, vandalism and other suspicious activities.

Other activities are being prepared, such as community police participation patrols, Rowett said.

A pilot project for participation patrols is also being tested on Vancouver Island.

Police say increased population in rural areas and less awareness of security among rural residents may have influenced the crime rate. However, successful programs can have a reverse effect on statistics.

Air fares up 15% Sept. 1

GENEVA (AP) — The world's major airlines agreed today on increases in passenger rates and cargo fares of between nine and 15 per cent effective Sept. 1 to make up for soaring fuel costs.

Conference sources said the complex package won unanimous approval from the 63 airlines attending the talks. Details on the many area accords, including on the most competitive North Atlatic routes, will be announced later this week.

Hans Rudolf Hagedorn, vice-director of Swissair, told reporters that rates in Switzerland will benefit from a hard-currency rebate of between 1.5 and 2 per cent because of the strength of the Swiss franc against the U.S. dollar.

It was the second round of increases this year to keep up with the fuel prices that have doubled during 1979. The first round, in March, produced increases of between five and seven per cent.

The International Air Transport Association, which convened the talks, estimates that its member airlines will have to cope with an average worldwide 16-per-cent increase in operating costs from fuel alone since the beginning of this year.

This figure, IATA experts say, does not include the impact of fuel-related inflation or other, non-fuel costs which they say will be felt in 1980.

"We had two weeks of very, very difficult negotiations," Hagedorn said. "Some airlines felt that even 15 per cent was far from enough. Others were under pressure from their government to keep the increase very low."

Originally, the new fares were to go into effect Oct. 1 but airlines realized that this would mean additional losses, he said. "We already can't recover the July and August costs," he commented.

Mercy ships save 1,893 boat people

BEEF UP OUR NAVY.

SINGAPORE (AP) — A private U.S. mercy ship rescued 46 Vietnamese refugees from an oil rig off the Malaysian coast and a U.S. Navy ship picked up 29 today, raising to 1,893 the total number of boat people saved by an international fleet combing the South China Sea.

The U.S. Navy combat supply ship picked up the 29 boat people about 350 kilometres west of the Subic Naval Base, a spokesman at the base in the Philippines reported. They were due at the base Tuesday morning and will be resettled in the United States, he said.

The French hospital ship Ile de Lumiere has been the most successful of the rescue ships so far. It picked up 837 so far this month.

Three Italian navy ships that left Singapore last Wednesday to look for boat people have found 196 so far, Ambassador F. L. Ottieri reported. The navy force, which includes the helicopter carrier Vittorio Veneto, the cruiser Andrea Doria and the supply ship Stromboli, hopes to find 1,000 and take them to Italy.

Meanwhile, in an apparent effort to crack down on the exodus of refugees, Vietnam has sentenced four people to death on charges of murder while trying to flee the country.

The Vietnamese also have increased offshore patrols and increased port security.

Cloudburst floods Calgary

CALGARY (CP) — A sudden shower of torrential rain and hail swept over the city Sunday knocking out power lines and flooding roads and basements.

The 45-minute downpour with winds of up to 64 kilometres an hour created "general chaos" for the city's hydro department, said department spokesman Jim Walker.

The squall created waist deep floods in some parts of the city and set Calgarians to shovelling hail from their sidewalks and driveways.

"It's the heaviest shower I've ever seen," said Jim Steele, a weather observer at Calgary International Airport weather office.

The storm dumped 10.2 millimetres of rain on the airport precipitation guage while Steele said two weather office employees reported rainfall of between 50 and 75 millimetres in the Silver Springs area.

One fire truck went to check a house reported with four feet of hailstones sitting on it and flooding the basement, the spokesman said. But otherwise, callers were told to "just try and bail, that's about it."

Steele said he saw a car floating down the road backward at the intersection of Sarcee and Crowchild Trails, followed closely by a floating mailbox.

Forest fire hazard extreme

B.C.'s forest fire situation is the worst since 1971 and potentially very dangerous, a forest protection branch spokesman said today.

"We are facing a very difficult August if this weather pattern continues," branch director Don Owen told a news conference.

"The situation is potentially extremely dangerous.

"What would give us fits would be a dry lightning storm" sweeping through the interior forest areas.

Lightning did hit the area during the weekend and sparked 203 fires.

Most of the new fires were in the Kamloops-Nelson-Williams Lake area and brought the total number of fires burning to 146.

So far this year there have been 2,018 forest fires in B.C.

Owen said the situation is under control at the moment but a bad lightning storm could present serious problems.

The weather outlook for August doesn't spell any relief either, he added.

Anti-war leader Marcuse dies at 81

. . . hero of New Left

STARNBERG, West Germany (AP) — Philospher Herbert Marcuse, a leader of the anti-war movement in the United States in the 1960s, died Sunday night after a short illness, a spokesman for his family announced today.

He had celebrated his 81st birthday July 19.

Marcuse, who retired in 1970 from the University of California at San Diego, was visiting his native Germany as a guest of the Max Planck Institute, a scientific organization.

A native of Berlin, Marcuse emigrated to the United States in 1934 and became a citizen in 1940.

He was with the Institute of Social Research at Columbia University from 1934 to 1940, then served with the wartime Office of Strategic Services and the U.S. state department from 1941 to 1950.

He returned to the academic world in 1951, teaching at Columbia's Russian Institute and at Harvard until 1954, when he became professor of politics and philosophy at Brandeis University. He went from Brandeis to the San Diego faculty as professor of philosophy in 1965.

His writings, particularly One-Dimensional Man, published in 1964, made him a hero of the New Left.

He told an interviewer in 1968 that, "in my books I have tried to make a critique of society — and not only capitalist society — in terms that avoid all ideology."

"I have tried to show that contemporary society is a repressive society in all its aspects, that even the comfort, the prosperity, the alleged political and moral freedom are utilized for oppressive ends."

Marcuse — pronounced Markooza — was a proponent of "the power of negative thinking" and invented the slogan "major refusal" to express his belief that individuals should reject the enticements of the modern technological society.

"The goods and services that the individuals buy control their needs and petrify their faculties," he wrote. "They have innumerable gadgets that keep them occupied and divert their attention from the real issue which is the awareness that they could both work less and determine their own needs and satisfactions."

Marcuse contended that modern society provided man with material well being but he said it was a happiness born of an ignorance — "a state of anesthesia" — of what man could become.

A 75th tribute to Marcuse written by Jean Amery for the Cologne newspaper Stadt-Anzeiger said "his extremism was greater than the world understood in the late '60s when he was fashionable."

"The main thing that probably marked him from conventional Marxism was that he considered the work force had long since been absorbed into the system by means of 'repressive tolerance' and therefore incapable" of rejected society's enticements, Amery wrote.

Marcuse was harshly criticized for his advocacy of revolution and its revolutionaries, but Amery wrote that he "placed all his hope in peripheral groups. This was the truly original aspect of his philosophy."

As Marcuse put it, change will be forced not only by the modern counterpart of Marx's proletariat — "the outcasts and outsiders, the exploited and persecuted . . . but also by the young, the sensitive, the educated."

Big bucks on Low Bucks

A lot of work and money went on display on the weekend as the Vancouver Island Street Rod Association staged its fifth annual Low Bucks Rod Run.

There were 115 entries from California, Oregon, Washington, Alberta and B.C.

The event featured a pancake-and-egg breakfast, games for youngsters and their parents, a fox hunt and a rod run Sunday to For Rodd Hill.

Frustrated builder offers park land

Kajo Holdings Ltd. president Ken Davies said today he will offer Saanich his property at the bottom of White Rock Street at Ten Mile Point as a municipal park.

Davies, who said he will take a $10,000 loss, made the offer to Mayor Mel Couvelier after learning council is holding a special meeting tonight to try to quash a permit issued by the regional board of health. The permit would allow Davies to have a sewage outfall into the sea on the site.

He said he had wanted to build a home for himself and his family but after almost a year of negotiations he is completely frustrated.

He and his engineer, Eric Hole, proposed to install a cromaglass treatment system that would introduce oxygen into the sewage so that by the time it reached the sea it would be 95 to 98 per cent pure.

Davies said he is pollution-conscious and had wanted to use this system to keep pollution to the minimum.

He said the syetem is exactly the same as that used by Brentwood College which dumps the treated sewage into non-tidal water.

Hole confirmed the proposed system has been in use for years and is produced by Northern Purification Services Ltd. of Vancouver.

Davies said it would have been simple for him to get a permit if he had merely proposed to build a sea wall, put in a soil field and get a percolation test. Instead, he said, he had tried to get the least polluting system available at a cost of about $5,000.

Faulty septic tanks in the Ten Mile Point area have caused problems for several years.

If council is really concerned about pollution, Davies said, it should begin a five-year clean-up program of the area.

Couvelier said Friday council will consider whether to take legal action to try to overturn or prevent a permit being issued Davies.

Regional directors had voted to allow the permit by a 6-4 vote.

When the vote was upheld at the regional board of health's meeting, Saanich directors failed in a bid to have the decision delayed two weeks to allow municipal staff to decide what action could be taken to stop the permit being issued.

Detector saves family in $40,000 house fire

By PAUL MINVIELLE
Times Staff

"Smoke was just pouring up through the cold air vent. I just got the baby and ran."

For 48-year-old grandmother Grace Hume, the flight from her blazing Saanich home at 4012 Wiseton early Sunday morning was terrifying.

Forced to flee the burning house, she knew her husband, Ernest, was still in the basement trying to waken their 17-year-old son, Gerald.

Two years ago, the Humes lost another son in a Sidney motorcycle accident.

"I was so afraid," Mrs. Hume said this morning as she recalled the events at about 2:30 a.m. Sunday. "It's been an awful seven years."

She said that four years ago her father died and almost three years before that her brother.

She said the family was in the last stages of remodelling their home. Gone are the new drapes, new carpeting and a new television set.

Damage is estimated at $40,000. Officials were at work today trying to determine the cause.

Mrs. Hume cedits a smoke detector with saving the family.

"I guess all of our neighbors are going to be getting alarms now."

She said the alarm sounded just after 2 a.m. The Humes were baby-sitting their 16-month-old granddaughter.

She said the alarm went off, then stopped momentarily.

"Then it just screeched."

Mrs. Hume grabbed Jennifer and she and her husband ran into the hall. Hume opened the basement foor and yelled at his son, who recently finished renovating his basement room where he has expensive stereo equipment.

When there was no response, Hume ran down the stairs. Gerald had just returned from a trip to Calgary and was sleeping soundly. Any chance of his hearing the alarm was lessened by the fact he had recently soundproofed his room to accommodate his stereo equipment.

Mrs. Hume dashed outside and yelled in the direction of a neighbor's house for someone to call the fire department. At least three neighbors did.

Meanwhile, her husband got out of the grade-level basement via a door and her son dove out the window.

A faulty toaster caused a $20,000 fire at the Carnarvon Manor apartment block at 1243 Bay on Sunday afternoon.

About $5,000 of the damage was caused to the apartment of Michael and Louise Hubbard. The balance of the damage total was caused by smoke in the halls and other apartments on the second floor of the four-storey apartment building.

First student for OLI

B.C.'s new Open Learning Institute has its first Greater Victoria student — Betty Douglas of 188 Beach Drive.

The provincial government-sponsored institution is offering three credit university courses this fall and a selection of high school courses. More courses will be available in Jauary.

Douglas is working as an accountant and says she has been trying to find a way to complete a university education in her spare time.

"My daughter just graduated from the University of Victoria with a BA degree and I was beginning to feel left behind," said Douglas, 53, who didn't complete her education in her native England.

New parks boss having a long week

Al Smith started work 29 years ago as a laborer in the city parks department and was told the job was only for a week.

"It's been a mighty long week," said Smith, who recently was appointed city parks administrator.

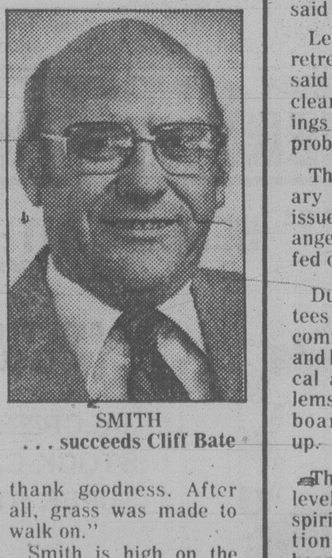
"I've seen plenty of changes since then — parks that were scarcely used are now in danger of being over-used."

Smith succeeded Cliff Bate who has retired.

All city parks are heavily used, Smith said.

"The best indicator to determine their use, of course, is the grass. The grass in some areas of Beacon Hill Park wears out quickly because of heavy use and we have to replace it with new turf. We now operate a turf nursery simply for this purpose."

He recalled that not too many years ago there was a bylaw prohibiting people from even walking on boulevard grass.



SMITH
. . . succeeds Cliff Bate

"That's gone now, thank goodness. After all, grass was made to walk on."

Smith is high on the Capital Region parks system, but thinks there should be more park waterfront property.

He considers Thetis Lake Park the jewel of the region's parks.

"It's got something for everyone," he said. "There's nothing like it in the area."

Trustee retreat success

A day-long retreat Sunday by Greater Victoria school board members was a success, Trustee Martin Levin said today.

Levin, who proposed the retreat several months ago, said it enabled the trustees to clear away misunderstandings and make hewdway on problems.

The rift occurred in January when "hot and heavy issues generated animosity, anger and resentment that fed on itself," he said.

During the retreat trustees discovered they have common goals, Levin said, and he is confident the political and philosophical problems that have plagued the board have been cleared up.

The trustees talked on two levels — how to achieve the spirit of trust and co-operation and how to improve board procedures and operations.

An ad hoc committee will be formed to study a report by schools superintendent Allan Stables on increasing school board efficiency.

The location of the retreat was kept secret. It lasted from 11 a.m. until about 9 p.m.

North Island . . . a new, busy world

THERE IS A WORLD outside the world we know, the poet tells us. By the same token there's a Vancouver Island that we knew of only by repute until we pointed out noses north on the new highway.

It's a big country, uncluttered and mostly empty, scarred by logging works old and new, and occasionally surprising the traveller with a settlement or a vigorous town.

Port Hardy is one of these. And from Port Hardy radiates roads both gravel and blacktop which we spent a day exploring.

One road led us to the little fishing port of Coal Harbor, where for some years after the Second World War whalers kept a land station busy dismantling and rendering the giant carcasses of their prey.

A pair of colossal whale jaw-bones set in the earth gave us our direction. We followed down a winding dirt road to the old seaplane base which the whalers took over.

The base drowses deserted in the sun, weeds poking up through its concrete. The hangars still stand. The broad concrete apron of the landing ramp up which whales were hauled still slopes to the sea. A one-wall "building" in razzle-dazzle camouflage reminded us of years when the prospects of Japanese attack made such subterfuge necessary.

But that was long ago. No trace remains of the far-patrolling flyimg boats that used the base, and even the smell of whale has vanished.

The land has other reminders of past endeavor. Another road took us to Fort Rupert where, startlingly, the stone chimney of a long-gone Hudson's Bay Company post rears from a vacant lot in the midst of an Indian village.

Fort Rupert did not prosper. One of the factors that caused it to be abandoned was the hostility of its proud and salty neighbors, the northern Kwakiutl. But the village still stands, and it has produced more than its share of artists. The Hunts, for instance, carvers supreme, and the great Mungo Martin.

Well on in the day, we found ourselves back in Port McNeill. We parked on a hill above the ferry wharf, the community of Sointula visible on one island across the water, and Alert Bay more distant on another.

The ferry was heading in, our go-light luggage was in the car, and with a couple of days still in hand, we were free to go where we wished.

"How about heading over to Alert Bay?" Win suggested. "It's a long time since we've been there."

So we joined the ferry line-up, and put bustling Port McNeill behind us.

Sointula wharf was being expanded and cars couldn't go ashore to a community which still runs heavily to inhabitants of Finland stock. But from the ferry, we noted a large new motel on the foreshore — a needed addition to a town which has been for several years without accommodation for the traveller.

Then on to Alert Bay, which had changed not at all since our last visit.

Private cars and a multitude of taxis still swooped along the narrow waterfront main street. The docks were crowded with fishboats great and small, and there was a constant coming and going of work craft in the channel.

It is an adventure to drive in Alert Bay. One needs eyes in the back of his head. We pulled in at one end of the town, with a muscle-car ravening at our rear bumper, for a look at some of the finest totems this coast offers.

These Alert Bay totems, grouped by the cemetery, are showing signs of weather now. But they still stand in magnificent heraldry, brooding over the town. Elsewhere (Victoria please note) Alert Bay has raised what it claimed to be the world's tallest totem.

At the other end of Alert Bay, out along that winding, shore-hugging business street, stands the stark edifice that was for many years St. Michael's Residential School. The white paint is shedding from its red brick, giving it a scrofulous air, but it is by no means abandoned.

It is, in fact, a veritable rabbit warren of specialized classes. As we passed through to the neat cafeteria in the basement, a lecturer was holding forth on navigation to a class of Indian fishermen.

We had breakfast in that same tucked-away little cafeteria, then started south with the feeling that we had expanded our Vancouver Island horizons considerably.

It's a trip I most heartily recommend to anyone with time to spare. The road is good and the driving easy. And there's a surprising amount to see and do in that busy North Island world beyond Campbell River.

"'A little dessert,' not 'a little desert.'"

Cup triumph first for Gerry

Gerry Vantreight burned up his home track with a solid driving performance Saturday to collect his first victory in three years of Canadian-American Modified Racing Association competition.

Vantreight won the 16th annual Strawberry Cup race before approximately 2,100 fans at Western Speedway.

The 50-lap main event was halted on the 14th circuit by a fire and Vantreight was fourth at the re-start. He moved up behind defending champion Doug Larsen of Quesnel and took the lead in the 21st lap.

Vantreight then managed to expand his lead until the 16th lap when Rebel Jackson of Seattle spun out and a yellow caution flag went out. Vantreight had to battle Larsen for two laps before the Quesnel driver spun out and then held off Pat Jessmore of Winthrop, Wash., until the final turn. Jessmore then spun out and allowed Barry Chamberlain of Vancouver and Jackson to finish second and third, respectively.

It was the eighth time a Victoria driver has won the race. Roy Smith collected the laurels four times and Al Smith has won three times.

Jones-Regazzoni one-two for victory in German Prix

HOCKENHEIM, West Germany (AP) — Teammates Alan Jones of Australia and Clay Regazzoni of Switzerland claimed the top spots in the 41st German Grand Prix, establishing their Saudi Arabian-backed team as the solid favorite in the final half of the Formula I auto-racing season.

Starting from the No. 2 position, Jones took the lead at the opening flag Sunday and survived late engine and tire problems for first place in 1 hour, 24 minutes and 48.83 seconds over 45 laps at the 4.2-mile (7.8-kilometre) Hockenheim track.

Regazzoni, in second for most of the race, piloted his green and white racer over the finish line 2.9 seconds later.

The impressive victory was the second straight for the Saudia-Williams team following Regazzoni's triumph earlier this month in the British Grand Prix at Silverstone, England. Both wins showed the Ford F-1 car is well-suited for high-speed tracks.

Jean Laffite of France finished third — 18.38 seconds off the pace — in his Ligier-Ford, followed by championship point leader Jody Scheckter of South Africa in a Ferrari and John Watson of Northern Ireland in a McLaren Ford.

Geoffrey Lees of England, a last-minute substitute for ailing Jean-Pierre Jarrier, placed seventh in a Tyrrell-Ford in his first Formula 1 outing, just ahead of Gilles Villeneuve of Berthierville, Que., in the other Ferrari and out of the points.

The veteran Swiss driver closed what had been a huge gap on the last lap when a leaking tire forced Jones to slow down. The Australian set a track record of 1 minute, 51.97 seconds on lap 15, shaving by .02 seconds the previous mark set last year by the late Ronnie Peterson.

Victoria keeps Huntting Cup

Victoria captured the Huntting Cup for the third straight year Sunday, defeating Vancouver 26-10 in the annual women's intercity golf competition at Royal Colwood Golf and Country Club.

Best missing for fourth time

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — George Best of Fort Lauderdale Strikers is missing again and has been indefinitely suspended.

The star forward missed the Strikers' flight back from California Thursday and didn't show up for Saturday night's game against San Diego Earthquakes. Indefinite suspension means the Strikers will no longer pay Best's salary.

It was the fourth time this year the former British soccer star had gone AWOL.

Brady, Munroe capture Sports Club race titles

Greg Brady and Gordie Munroe were the only Victoria drivers to break a domination by the out-of-town competitors during the Victoria Motor Sports Club's Silver Anniversary Challenge Race held Sunday on the one-mile road course at Western Speedway.

Brady finished second in the novice closed wheel race Saturday while R. Peters, a Victorian driving a Tiga Formula Ford, won the novice open wheel race.

Etawah Hank takes No. 1

Well, that's settled — at least for the time being.

Etawah Hank is the best pacer on the grounds at Sandown Raceway and Governors Star Boy is beatable.

Etawah Hank is a five-year old bay gelding owned by K. Dorman of Surrey and Saturday won a second straight invitational.

Trained and driven by Keith Linton, Etawah Hank defeated the best horses on the grounds in the time of 2:03 and returned $4.40, $2.50 and $2.10. It was his sixth win to go with a place in eight starts at Sandown, and a commanding performance as he made every post a winner.

Senga Mitsy closed well for the place.

Governors Star Boy is an eight-year old brown horse, owned by the Winner Stable of Vancouver, trained by W. Leung, was going for his ninth consecutive win as he has successfully moved up the claiming ladder since coming to Sandown and was also driven by Linton.

But, ironically, despite having the winningest driver on the track in the sulky for the first time, Governors Star Boy didn't make it.

He was hooking tougher in a $6,000-$7,000 claimer and, after setting most of the pace, finished fourth behind the fast-closing Irish Dawn, Flight Stream and Mss Hazel. Irish Dawn returned $38.00.

Now you can enjoy the Sebastiani family tradition.

Our Sebastiani family vineyards are the oldest in Northern California. The first grapes were planted here in 1825. Today, the third generation of Sebastianis continues our family's heritage of quality and dedication to old world wine-making skills.

My father August (like his father before him) won't have it any other way. Aware of the importance of care and time, he insists we make our wines in the unhurried, traditional way. Sebastiani wines are softened and mellowed in redwood casks, then aged to the peak of maturity in the cool, even temperatures of our limestone cellars. We know that the degree of maturity and the method by which it is reached makes the difference between good wine and great wine: over the years, many of our wines have won gold and silver medals in national and international competitions.

Sebastiani Mountain Burgundy and Sebastiani Mountain Chablis are two wines my father is especially proud of. He calls them the "Sebastiani family's contribution to fine dining, in the style of the French country wines." People seem to agree because they're our two most popular wines.

May we share the Sebastiani family tradition of premium quality and excellent value with you? Look for Sebastiani Mountain Chablis and Sebastiani Mountain Burgundy. We introduce them with pride and confidence, and we think you'll enjoy them.

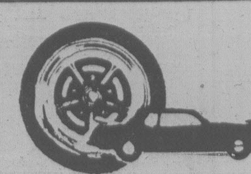
Don't rush into a Rabbit



WHEELS

by Mike Lamm

DEAR MIKE: We're in the market for a new car. We currently drive a 1972 Buick Riviera that gets terrible gas mileage. My question is, Should we get a diesel car like a diesel Rabbit or the small Oldsmobile? What's your opinion? — MOVING ON

DEAR MOVING: The diesel situation has changed abruptly in recent months, and there's no telling where it'll go in the future. Diesel fuel now costs nearly the same as leaded regular gasoline at some stations. It used to be, too, that you had to be a high-mileage driver to make a diesel car pay off. But diesels currently depreciate so little that that's not true anymore.

On the other hand, with uncertain emission standards and an uncertain fuel supply for diesels, the depreciation picture could change again. I don't know your particular situation — whether you live in an area with easy access to diesel fuel, how long you usually keep a car, how many miles per year you drive, etc.

What I'm leading up to is that buying a diesel today involves certain risks. Be sure you weigh all the pros and cons. Too many people are buying diesels, I feel, on impulse.

DEAR MIKE: Because of the fuel situation, we've retired our Jeep Wagoneer from daily use. However, we will use it in wintertime. This vehicle has 37,000 miles and the 360 V8. Question: Do we need to change oil at 6-month intervals even though the Wagoneer will be driven only a few hundred miles each winter? — RETIRING JEEP

DEAR RETIRING: Yes, you should, because short stop-and-go trips in cold weather are very hard on an engine. Raw fuel seeps into the pan, and acids tend to build up.

DEAR MIKE: Our 1974 Volkswagen bus stalls out in warm weather. It won't start again for half an hour or so. We've had the fuel pump replaced. The fuel lines and smog controls check out okay. Our servicemen doesn't believe it's vapor lock. What do you think? — STALLED AND STYMIED

DEAR STALLED: It certainly sounds like classic vapor lock to me. Another possibility could be the ignition coil. Sometimes a coil gets hot internally. It then tends to lose voltage or builds up electrical resistance.

'Countrymen,' says ad, 'Lend me your tears'

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — Wanted: weepers.

William Frey is advertising for people who will cry for him and contribute to his growing amount of data on human tears.

Frey, a biochemist, and his colleagues want to know why people cry.

"If we determine that," he said, "it may help us understand the biochemical basis of emotions, which could lead to better treatment of people with emotional instabilities."

Frey received a one-year $4,000 grant from St. Paul Ramsey's Medical Education and Research Foundation. He spent a large chunk of it recently after placing an ad in the Minnesota Daily offering $10 apiece to those who would cry for him.

So many people signed up in two days — 110 — he had to withdraw the offer.

The ad asked people to watch a sad French movie, Sundays and Cybele, scoop up their tears in a test tube he provides, and then fill out a questionnaire to determine their emotional reaction to the film.

The questionnaire was filled out twice, once to determine the volunteer's reaction at the height of his emotion and again to determine how he felt after he cried.

Frey asked his subjects to come back one week after they saw the film and answer another series of questions. He also gave them an onion test at that time to induce tears.

"No one knows much of anything about tears," Frey said.

He wants to determine whether people feel better after they cry, whether emotional tears differ from irritant-imposed tears, and whether tears shed differ according to the emotion experienced.

The study may also determine whether the contact lenses affect tears, he said.

Honda Accord Hatchback from $6,995

Honda Accord Sedan from $7,395

THE DARN NEAR PERFECT CAR. HAS A PERFECT PARTNER.
"It's the darn near perfect car." We didn't say it, David Pearson said it. He said it to Brock Yates. In case you don't know, David Pearson is a Grand National Stock Car Racing Champion and Brock Yates is a former Editor of Car and Driver magazine, so they both know a bit about cars. And both of them have owned Honda Accord Hatchbacks.
And that isn't all they said. Brock Yates commented further: "One contemplates an Accord and thinks, why in the name of Ransom E. Olds can't all cars be as neatly engineered? Here comes a manufacturer noted for motorcycles, portable generators and outboard motors that within fewer years than you can count on your hands builds a car decades ahead of many of those built by people who've been involved with the business for half a century."
Their enthusiasm is not hard to understand. Unless, of course, you've never driven an Accord yourself. It is perhaps the best combination of luxury and performance that is available anywhere, at anywhere near its price.
An Accord's mechanical credentials are impeccable. It comes with front wheel drive, power assisted front disc brakes, rack and pinion steering, 5-speed transmission and fully independent MacPherson strut suspension. All of which help make it a joy to drive.
Small wonder that some of the world's most knowledgeable car enthusiasts own, and love to drive Honda Accords.
If any criticism of the Accord Hatchback was possible, it might have been that it was a 2-door and therefore not exactly suited to someone who might have a family. We're not sure if anyone ever made that criticism. However, if they did (and even if they didn't), we've answered it. Honda Accord Hatchback, the darn near perfect car, now has a perfect partner: the new Honda Accord 4-door sedan.
Both of the Accords share the same impeccable mechanical features. Both are exciting to drive.
But the sedan offers you extra interior room plus the convenience of 4 doors. Inside the Accord, you'll find yourself seated on fully reclining front bucket seats that are upholstered in warm, comfortable cloth. Directly in front of you, every Accord has extensive instrumentation that lets you know what's happening, when. Including lights that tell you if any of the doors are not closed, or if a brake light is burned out. And just to the right, is a standard AM/FM radio.
But the best way to discover an Accord's qualities is to go to a Honda dealer and see for yourself. Look carefully at the fit, the finish and the detailing of the car. Then take one for a test drive. Whether you're interested in the hatchback or sedan, we think you'll agree with David Pearson. Either one of them is the darn near perfect car.
THE HONDA ACCORDS
A new standard in luxury performance cars.
